Khrushchev Charges Downed U.S. Pilot On Spying Mission

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT ON SANDSPIT

Signs in foreground warn trespassers away as what will be a quarter-million-dollar restaurant, the Spinnaker, begins to rise on Sausalito Sandspit property leased from city by Madden and Lewis. The restaurant is being built by Mac Marin, a firm headed by J. Eugene McAteer, San Francisco restaurateur and state senator. Sub-lease of the property to the restaurant promoters caused controversy which resulted in efforts to retain other city-owned sandspit land for public recreational use. (Independent-Journal photo)

Shot Scares Bar Patrons In San Rafael

By RANDALL GOULD

A bar quarrel soon after midnight today led in fast bewildering succession to the accidental discharge of a pistol and to a holdup of the Albi Club at 1547 Fourth street, San Rafael.

Loss, exclusively from the cash register with nothing taken from the customers, was about $100. But the six patrons were subjected to the indignity of lying on the floor.

Apparently the "stickup" wasn't premeditated, but was the result of a sudden notion of the gun toter after his weapon had been drawn to wallop another patron who differed with him about movie stars.

ORDERS BEER

James S. Todt, co-owner and bartender, later said that the gunman entered the bar about 12:55 a.m., sat down in a corner and ordered a beer.

He was a slight, short, well-dressed dark-haired man about 27 years old and with sallow complexion — nothing desperate about his aspect, and for a while he attracted no special attention.

But after ordering a second beer he began to argue with another patron, George A. Turrini of 27 Madrone avenue, San Rafael. They differed, it seemed, on something relating to Hollywood. Turrini got up to depart.

PULLS GUN

As Turrini passed, the other man rose from his stool, hauled out a pistol and struck Turrini back of the ear with it.

The gun went off and the bullet passed through an upper front window.

Turrini had a literally close shave. Subsequent check on his damage, for which he refused medical attention, disclosed a small cut, apparently from the gun barrel, together with powder burns in the hairline above the ear and a small blister two inches to the rear of the ear.

The gunman backed away from Turrini and swung his pistol to cover the bar patrons.

"Everyone lie down in back on the floor," he ordered in a voice later described to police as soft and refined, with no noticeable accent.

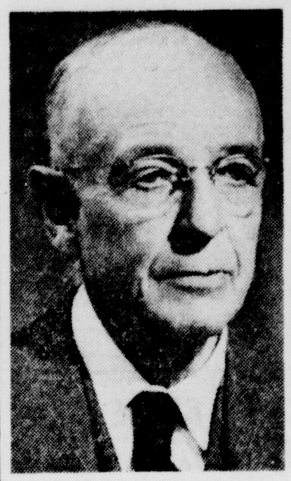

THREAT

"The first one that moves gets it in the head."

Convinced that the stranger wasn't fooling, the patrons promptly complied with orders. Accompanying Todt and Turrini were Bette Babcock, 101 Brookmead court, San Anselmo; John C. Youngberg, Box 415, Ross; Warren H. Wells, 27 Valencia avenue, San Rafael; David H. Davidson, 427 San Anselmo avenue, San Anselmo; and Raymond J. Greenberg Jr., 12 Brookside drive, San Anselmo.

The gunman then went behind the bar and removed an estimated $100 in $1, $5 and

Prominent Marinite Dies

George H. Harlan Sr., veteran Sausalito attorney with a brilliant record of public service, died at 12:45 p.m. today at Marin General Hospital, less than a month short of his eighty-third birthday.

He had been ailing for some time and had been in the hospital since April 26, suffering from a heart condition.

Born in San Francisco June 3, 1877, he came of parents who had arrived in 1850 by a French ship around Cape Horn. They settled in Sausalito in 1880.

Graduating from San Rafael High School in 1894, Harlan went on to the University of California and graduated from Hastings Law School in San Francisco in 1901. He opened a law office in San Rafael in 1904 and was elected to the state assembly in 1911.

U.S. To Ask Talk With Accused Flier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High officials said today the United States would demand a chance to talk to the American pilot whom Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev claimed confessed to being an aerial spy after his weather mission plane was shot down over Russia.

Authorities here said it was virtually certain the State Department would instruct U.S. Ambassador Llewelyn E. Thompson in Moscow to demand an interview with the civilian flier, 30-year-old Francis G. Powers of Albany, Ga.

It was indicated that Thompson might already have sought access to Powers, who, Khrushchev said, had admitted he was on a trans-Soviet espionage mission as an agent of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The State Department held off a reply to Khrushchev's accusations until it could complete a careful study of the lengthy text of the Russian leader's speech to the Supreme Soviet in which he made his charges.

Members of Congress reacted with statements ranging from skepticism to outright denunciation of Khrushchev's allegations, and several officials raised doubts about some of the details to which Khrushchev said Powers confessed.

They pointed skeptically at Khrushchev's claim that Powers, based in Adana, Turkey, took off from Pakistan and planned a flight across the whole Soviet Union from Central Asia to the Polish border to land finally in Norway.

Airman May Be Tried On Espionage Counts

MOSCOW (AP) — A U.S. pilot whose high-altitude jet was shot down over the Soviet Union Sunday has admitted he was on a spying mission and may face trial as a spy, Premier Nikita Khrushchev announced today.

The pilot is Francis G. Power, 30, of Pound, Va.

Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet, or Parliament, Powers had escaped by parachute when a Soviet rocket wrecked his plane as it was speeding across the Soviet Union —with camera photographing airfields and industrial enterprises — at a height of 65,000 feet, more than 12 miles.

He landed "alive and well," the premier said.

GIVES DETAILS

Powers was described by the premier as a former U.S. Air Force pilot who joined the Central Intelligence Agency in 1956. Khrushchev said he was en route from a U.S. base in Pakistan to a U.S. base in Norway when his plane was downed near Sverdlovsk in the Urals. His assignment, Parliament was told, was to check on the Urals, Archangel and Murmansk.

The U.S. State Department said Powers was a civilian test pilot for the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and his jet was an American weather observation plane missing since it took off last Sunday from Adana, Turkey.

Khrushchev said Powers carried a silenced pistol, a dagger, a penknife, currencies of the Soviet Union, West Germany Italy and other countries and a suicide kit which he never used.

EXHIBITS

Khrushchev said a news conference might be organized to display these and other items, which he said included two gold watches in addition to Powers' own and "seven gold bracelets for women."

"I also thought it would be right to put the pilot on trial," he said.

Khrushchev told a shouting, applauding Parliament he had delayed announcing the capture of the pilot to expose what he called fabrications in the official American version of the incident, which has cast a cloud over the Big Four summit conference opening in Paris May 16.

"We have not only the instruments found on the aircraft but also a developed film consisting of photographs of several places on our territory," Khrushchev said.

"Here are some of the photographs showing military airports. Here — look at this," Khrushchev told the deputies. "Here are the airfields, here. Fighters in position on the ground. Two little white strips . . . "

"The persons involved in this predatory flight have invented nothing but a stupid version to the effect that it was allegedly a meteorological aircraft. And then oxygen equipment failed and the pilot fainted and the aircraft, like an unsteered derelict, dragged the pilot against his will into Soviet territory. What innocence."

EQUIPMENT

Khrushchev said the plane was equipped with an explosive charge designed to destroy it when the pilot set off the catapult to eject himself. The premier said that perhaps in fear he himself would be killed the pilot did not use the ejector in bailing out.

Khrushchev said the plane was part of unit No. 10-10, based in Turkey east of Adana and was commanded by Col. William Shelton.

He said the pilot, Powers, had left April 27 and flown to Pakistan where he was based at the airfield Tishla.

He quoted the pilot as saying:

'CONFESSION'

"I had to take off from Pakistan and fly through the territory of the USSR to Norway. Of Soviet cities which I was supposed to fly over I remember Murmansk and Archangel. I had to switch on and off instruments over certain points spotted on my map. The plane covered more than 2,000 kilometers (1,250 miles) in four hours."

Khrushchev said the pilot had not committed suicide as ordered because "living things want to go on living."

"And the pilot had 7,500 rubles, too," Khrushchev said. "Of course he was not flying to change the old rubles to new ones . . .

"What was the purpose? Was it for taking air samples?"

Khrushchev remarked that press reports said President Eisenhower knew nothing about the flight of the American plane.

Ike Announces U.S. Will Resume Underground Nuclear Test Shots

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower announced today the United States will resume underground nuclear tests, possibly by the end of the year.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said the tests will involve the use of non-weapon devices.

But he did not rule out the possibility any knowledge gained may have military applicability.

The Eisenhower announcement, made after Hagerty had conferred with the President at his farm, also disclosed plans for a major expansion of current research and development "toward an improved capability to detect and identify underground nuclear explosions."

The statement said 10 million dollars is earmarked for this purpose in the budget for the fiscal year ending June 30 and that it is anticipated about 66 million dollars more will be needed in the next fiscal year.

Hagerty said that of this total Eisenhower plans to ask Congress to assign 32½ million in new money to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Hagerty said the remaining 33½ million will come from a new distribution of Defense Department funds.

The resumption of testing was foreshadowed March 16 when the Atomic Energy Commission announced it was preparing for new tests in New Mexico. It indicated preparations would be completed next January, but the final decision to resume was left up to President Eisenhower.

As far as is known publicly, there have been no Soviet atomic tests since November 1958, when the United States joined the Soviet Union in voluntary suspension of all tests.

The self-imposed U.S. moratorium officially expired the first of this year, but there was no definite indication tests would be resumed until the March AEC announcement.

The AEC announcement said the new tests, when and if approved by the President, would be called Project Gnome.

This calls for a shaft 1,200 feet deep in the earth, with an 1,100-foot tunnel leading off at the bottom. The objectives would be to explore the possibility of:

1. Getting electric power from the heat of the atomic shot.

2. Recovering useful radioisotopes for scientific and industrial applications from the atomic mine.

3. Making measurements to contribute to further development of power reactors.

Dominican Unit Options New School Site

The Dominican Sisters of San Rafael, who have operated a private girl's school in San Rafael for 71 years, have begun negotiations for the purchase of a large parcel of land in Sleepy Hollow for the site of a new elementary and high school.

The Sisters' option to buy the Rausch property at the end of Butterfield road will come up before the Marin County Planning Commission May 16 and before the board of supervisors the following week.

Independent-Journal Wins National Newspaper Awards

The Independent-Journal yesterday won honorable mention in the freedom information division and the best advertising idea or promotion division of the National Editorial Assn.'s 1960 Better Newspaper Contest at Atlantic, Ga.

The NEA closed its 75th anniversary convention today, cheered by the commendation of President Eisenhower. A telegram from Eisenhower, praising the NEA for its service to the hometowns of the nation, was read at the awards banquet last night.

The I-J's advertising award was for the series of advertisements of the Drake Pharmacy, San Anselmo, that ran both in black and white and in color last year. The advertisements gave the prices of precription drugs.

The freedom of information award was for a series of editorials and articles pointing out violations of the Brown Act, California's anti-secrecy law relating to public bodies.

California newspapers took top honors in the contest, with the Palo Alto Times named the nation's outstanding newspaper for general excellence among dailies. Second place was won by the Redwood City Tribune.

The Amos Award, annually presented to a non-metropolitan newspaper for outstanding service, was presented Lowell Jessen of the Livermore Herald-News.

Death Row Inmate Slugs Guard

A convicted murderer today slugged a San Quentin Prison guard with a leg off his Death Row cell stool, after he cut his wrist with a razor. Neither man was seriously hurt.

Raymond L. Cartier, 31, hit correctional officer Edward N. Hatton, 38, on the side of the head as Hatton handed him hot water for shaving.

Cartier hit Hatton "for no apparent reason," according to Jerry J. Enomoto, prison officer of the day. Cartier was quickly subdued by Hatton, and after the skirmish, Cartier's left wrist wound was closed with two stitches. The cut was self-inflicted but not an attempt at Suicide, Enomoto said. Hatton's head was only bruised. Cartier was placed in isolation.

Cartier, whose case is on appeal, was convicted in San Diego County of slaying his wife.

Enomato refused to disclose Hatton's address.

Judge Gets 2 Threats

Two notes threatening Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman of San Francisco have caused special guard of the judge by both the FBI and San Francisco police, according to disclosure by Richard D. Auerback, in charge of the San Francisco FBI office.

Goodman was involved in an odd incident during Caryl Chessman's last minutes of life Monday when the judge decided to grant a brief stay, but due to a mistake about the San Quentin Prison phone number got through to the warden's office just after cyanide pellets had been dropped in the gas chamber.

Contents of the threatening notes weren't divulged, so it is not clear whether the writers were pro- or anti-Chessman.

Korea Troops Rout Demonstrators In Seoul With Bursts Of Tear Gas

SEOUL (UPI) — Republic of Korea army troops fired two bursts of tear gas bombs today to break up a sit-down demonstration of students in front of the Seoul city hall.

A force of some 100 troops moved in to disperse about 100 demonstrators. The troops then advanced with bayonets lowered to break up a crowd of some 2,000 who had been watching the demonstration in city hall plaza.

One student was reported injured. The demonstrations were demanding the resignation of their high school principal, Kim Jun Joon, who they charged had been affiliated with the Liberal Party of former President Syngman Rhee.

The troops, armed with rifles and bayonets, had rushed to the plaza from the adjoining Ducksoo Palace, where they have been stationed since the declaration of martial law April 19.

The students dispersed as soon as the troops fired several tear gas bombs. The demonstrators soon regrouped and tried to rush in again, only to be met with another burst of tear gas.

The Seoul demonstration followed a series of student protest actions in big Korean cities this week demanding the resignation of the National Assembly in the wake of bloody student uprisings that forced the resignation of Rhee.

U.S. Ambassador Walter P. McConaughy today delivered to acting President Hugh Chung a message from U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter reaffirming U.S. support for Hugh's government.

McConaughy visited Hugh at his office to deliver the message of "strong sympathy" for Korea in its current situation and to talk about problems involved in stepping up U.S. aid projects. The meeting lasted nearly two hours.

Twisters Smash Two Alabama Communities

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Terrifying twisters swirled out of the darkness and struck two small communities near Mobile, Ala., this morning, the Weather Bureau reported.

An unidentified eyewitness quoted by the Weather Bureau at the Air Weather Service, Brookley Air Force Base, Mobile, said he heard a heavy roar and watched buildings explode in front of him on Dauphin Island Highway south of the Dog River Bridge near Mobile.

Unconfirmed reports said two service stations, one grocery store, a skating rink and a Masonic lodge were destroyed and a Baptist church badly damaged. Another twister was sighted at St. Elmo, Ala., three miles west of Theodore, on Highway 90 west of Mobile.

It marked the third straight day of death and destruction from the swirling winds.

Twenty-nine were dead and hundreds injured from the twisters that unleashed their most savage fury on Oklahoma and Arkansas and then darted into the Mississippi Valley and the South.

Gusty winds, hail and heavy rains also added to the storms' wrath which counted hundreds of homes and businesses destroyed or damaged.

At Wilburton, Okla., where 11 persons were killed and 104 injured by Thursday night's twister, Gov. J. Howard Edmondson said, "I will declare it a major disaster area."

A check of the community of 1,900 showed 82 homes destroyed, 34 heavily damaged, 22 businesses destroyed and two churches demolished.

Wide areas of the Midwest and South braced for the worst yesterday during repeated tornado warnings, but damage was mercifully lighter:

At Lexie, in southwest Mississippi, a twister destroyed one house, lifted 12 others from their foundations and damaged 50 more. Nearby, homes were damaged in the areas of Poplarville, Dexter and Sandy Hook.

In west-central Illinois and in Missouri's bootheel, funnel clouds touched ground, but damage was light.

Funnels also were sighted near Osceola, Ark., and in Tennessee about 25 miles northeast of Memphis.

Heavy rains and gale-force winds struck scattered areas yesterday and today.

New Orleans was drenched with 2.35 inches of rain, Baton Rouge got 2 inches, Goshen, Ind., 1.30 inches, and Lafayette, Ind., which reported wind gusts over 80 m.p.h., 1.40 inches.

Two inches of rain also fell at Murrayville, Ill., 1½ at Rockford, Ill., and hail pelted central Illinois.

In Wisconsin, snow mixed with rain fell today as a cold front extended southwestward from the Great Lakes through the Eastern Plains well into Texas, dropping temperatures as much as 25 degrees from the previous 24-hour readings.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A truck hauling a 90-foot missile got caught briefly in traffic before the home of Mayor Ben West.

U2 Aircraft Grounded For Checks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The remaining U2 weather research planes, of the type presumed to be involved in the Soviet claim to have shot down an American craft, have been grounded for 15 days, National Administration sources said yesterday.

The suspension of research flights, the sources said, is to permit a recheck of the planes and particularly the oxygen equipment.

An NASA statement Thursday, following the Russian announcement of the incident, noted that the pilot of a U2 missing after a flight from Turkey had reported difficulties with his oxygen equipment.

BLACKOUT?

There was speculation that the pilot may have blacked out, and the plane, on automatic pilot, may have continued on over Russian territory.

The NASA statement said three of the U2 planes operate out of Atsugi, Japan, and four out of Adana, Turkey. One is operated at Edwards Air Force Base.

Military police imposed strict secrecy in 1958 when two U2 planes crashed July 8 and July 9 at Amarillo, Tex., and Tucumcari, N. M.

CLASSIFIED

At that time civilian police said they were ordered by the second Air Command to allow no one within five miles of the "highly classified plane."

Police said they had been ordered then by the military to touch none of the wreckage unless to save lives.

The U2 was described as a single engine jet assigned to the Strategic Air Command for checking radioactivity from nuclear fallout and weather conditions up to 55,000 feet.

Organization Of Cities, Counties Eyed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Supervisors of nine Bay Area counties and mayors of 54 cities are one step away from the legal launching of the Assn. of Bay Area Governments.

It's to be an advisory group aimed at helping iron out common problems while avoiding a super-metropolitan form of government.

All that remains after a Thursday night meeting in Berkeley is the signing of a contract—now being circulated—and approval of a $55,000 budget, half contributed by the counties, half by the cities.

ADVISORY

The group will make recommendations concerning the activities of area-wide units such as the Bay Area Air Pollution Control Board and any rapid transit organization.

"The association will bring better government to the entire Bay Area," said San Francisco Supervisor William Blake after the Berkeley meeting.

Of the proposed budget, $5,000 would go for office equipment and $50,000 for operating expenses.

NO LEGISLATION

Organizers emphasized the strictly advisory nature, saying the group neither could make nor enforce laws and regulations.

The group's recommendations would be passed along to county supervisors and city councils for action.

Richard Carpenter, executive director of the League of California Cities, commented:

"If you don't have this, you will have something else to solve the Bay Area's problems. And that something else will put city councils and boards of supervisors out of business."

Party Chiefs Hit Reapportion Plan For State Senate

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's Republican and Democratic state chairmen have teamed up to reapportion the Bonelli plan to reapportion the State Senate.

Californians Against Inequitable Reapportionment, Inc., called the statements "a nonpartisan move almost unique in California politics."

George W. Milias of Gilroy, the Republican chairman, and Assemblyman William A. Munnell of Montebello, the Democratic, urged California voters to defeat the proposed initiative.

The measure, originated by Los Angeles Supervisor Frank Bonelli, is expected to qualify within a few days for a place on the November ballot.

It would divide the Senate 20-20 between Northern and Southern California. The area south of the Tehachapi now has only eight of the 40 Senate seats.

A Wish For Security, Peace, Happiness On Mother's Day

There is not much that can be said about Mother's Day which hasn't already been said over and over again. In a small way, every one of us will on Mother's Day attempt to make life for our mothers just a little bit happier or a little bit easier.

Oh that we had a magic lamp to rub! We'd ask our genii to make mothers lives as happy and secure as those few minutes just after the children are safely tucked in for the night, and as peaceful and quiet as those first few minutes just after the grandchildren go home.

This is our wish for mothers on Mother's Day.

Of Mice And Mice

The average person, if he thinks about mice at all, almost instinctively thinks of greyish-tan house mice whenever mice are mentioned. This messy, little household chum is an object of distaste and at the same time amusement to most of us.

This little fellow, a native of Asia that has migrated to every settled part of the world, is not the one we had in mind to write about. We were thinking of our own native brown field mice.

This scourge of the grain fields is actually a very shy, peace-loving, little creature. They make grass houses which keep the mouse family fairly dry even in the rainiest weather. And what families they have! They are probably the most prolific mammals, having six litters of about six babies a year.

However, they have a tremendous mortality rate. Birds of prey, skunks, coons, foxes, cats and, of course, men try to do away with all they can. Mice also have strange, unexplained cyclical increases and decreases, which affect the predators, too.

One reason advanced for the unwelcome chumminess of the raccoons and skunks to the homes of our country's human citizens a couple of years ago was a shortage of field mice.

Thus we see, whether we like it or not, the ways of mighty man who has conquered the world and space are still subject to the cyclical whims of the common field mouse.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

SICK MOTHER SAVES DROWNING BOY

A young mother in Texas abandoned her sick bed to rescue a neighbor's 8-year-old boy from drowning in a water-filled ditch near her home.

When the youngster, who had been exploring a new development area, toppled into a 10-foot ditch, his companions rushed to the nearest home, screaming for help.

The young woman, a flu victim, pulled on a robe, rushed out the back door and across the yard.

Without thinking of herself, she stretched out on the damp, muddy ground and reached for the boy clinging to the side of the pit. She couldn't pull him out of the ditch but she held him up until help arrived.

All of us are capable of rising to unusual heights when a life is at stake. This is a reassuring evidence of God's power working within us.

Don't wait, however, for a crisis to bring into play that bit of divine greatness within you. Put it to work when there is no particular challenge and you will do great good.

"He who would save his life will lose it; but he who loses his life for my sake will find it." (Matthew 16:25)

Keep me alert, O Jesus, to the needs of others.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Whole State Will Watch McCarthy Bid For Write-Ins

By CHAPIN A. DAY

One of the most interesting developments of primary elections without cross filing is the write-in campaign. One of the most interesting write-in campaigns in the state will be right here in Marin. The whole state may well be watching it.

It was officially announced this week by Republican Marin Sen. John F. McCarthy that he intends to attempt to gain the Democratic nomination by having Democrats write in "McCarthy" on their primary ballots. This was no great surprise. We've mentioned the possibility of it happening several times in this column.

Most of the old political pros poo-poo the idea that a member of one party can get enough members of the other party to write in his name. It's just too big a selling job, they say.

At the same time, they say that if anyone can do it in the state, and half a dozen or more will try, McCarthy may well be the most likely to pull it off.

If McCarthy's Two Democratic opponents, Charles M. Geller of San Anselmo and Max Miller of San Rafael, think they can take it easy, they better think again. McCarthy is lining up a full scale campaign for Democratic votes and it's already well launched with kaffee klatches, petitions, and the like. Still to come are direct mailings, advertising and all the tricks of the trade aimed at getting the Democrats to "Write In McCarthy."

In case you're wondering why he'd go to such a lot of trouble and expense to try to win in the primaries, look ahead a couple of years. It would be pretty hard for the GOP big-wigs to overlook a successful Republican candidate who could draw enough Democratic support to win with write-ins in the primary, wouldn't it? And don't we elect state officials like governor in 1962?

DID YOU notice that the governor signed a bill the other day establishing Sonoma State College in Sonoma County?

That was previously known as North Bay State College and was supposed to be located in any one of the four North Bay counties—Sonoma, Marin, Solano and Napa. We lost.

WE NOTE that the endorsing season is in full swing already this year. Many organizations which often didn't endorse in the primaries previously, now are getting into the act.

Latest one to come to our attention was endorsement of William H. Bagley of San Rafael for the Republican nomination by the California Grocers' Association meeting in San Francisco, because of his "superior qualifications for and sincere interest in this legislative position."

Bagley's GOP opponent, Leigh Shoemaker of Petaluma took us to task for saying we hadn't seen much indication of his working for votes very hard in Marin. He assures us he has been so working.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Which Side Are You On?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Your editorial of April 30 seems to make some sort of plea for moderation in construction costs to attract new residents to Marin.

Yet you have sought higher taxes by backing the blatantly extravagant county seat now being erected.

Contradictions of this nature are difficult to savvy.

Just which side are you on?

Drummond Ought To Verify Facts

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

On April 25 there appeared in your newspaper an article by Roscoe Drummond concerning the religious issue in the impending presidential campaign. In this article there were many somewhat inaccurate statements.

It was stated that for 2,000 years the Catholic Church has "never swerved" from the doctrine of the union of Church and State. I would tend to question rather severely whether the authority used by Mr. Drummond as a basis of the statement, a minister in the Third Unitarian Church of Chicago, was fully qualified to make such a sweeping generalization concerning 20 centuries of church history.

Then the columnist went on to mention that in some countries with a Catholic majority there is a union of Church and State. This gives the reader the impression that the Catholic Church is the only one which is established by law in some foreign countries. It is not stated that in many Protestant countries there is also a union of Church and State (e.g. Denmark, England and Sweden). It is also not mentioned that other faiths also have their religion established in certain countries (e.g. Judaism in Israel, Islam in Pakistan).

It can not be seen by the reader that in many cultures it is natural for there to be a union of Church and State whether the country be Catholic, Protestant or any other. This is a fact no matter how alien it seems to our way of thinking. That is why such countries as the United States and France are exceptions in the area of world politics for their stand on separation of Church and State.

Mr. Drummond does not seem to be cognizant of the fact that not one of the over 1,000 Catholic bishops our country has had ever made any statement either directly or indirectly in support of the union of Church and State. This columnist does not seem to have access to the official statement of the Catholic bishops of America in 1945 when they declared themselves against the union of Church and State.

Mr. Drummond then stated in this article that Catholics are in favor of many forms of state aid to private education which were against "good American public policy." Two of the examples he used were tax-supported bus rides and text books for private students.

Here this columnist's concept of "good American public policy" seems to be in direct contrast to the concept upheld by the Supreme Court which stated in the Everson case and the Louisiana textbook case that such aid was perfectly within the "law of the land" set down by our founding fathers.

In his article Mr. Drummond mentioned Catholic canon law: this canon forbids any Catholic priest from holding public office. Wouldn't it be wise and prudent move for other religious bodies in America to adopt a similar restriction on their clergy to protect our 200 year tradition of the separation of the Church and State?

The final issue brought up in the column was the possibility that a Catholic majority would support restrictive legislation concerning birth control and censorship. It is hard to see where Mr. Drummond finds a basis for this statement since nowhere in the United States has there been such legislation sponsored by Catholics (not even in Rhode Island where Catholics are now in a majority).

Perhaps Mr. Drummond has mistakenly assumed that the state laws of Connecticut and Massachussetts which prohibit the dissemination of birth control information were initiated by the near negligible minority of Catholics who lived in those states at the time those laws were passed.

If there is a real religious issue as this columnist seems to think, writers who use rather inaccurate statements concerning the Catholic Church are not doing anything to put the issue in the right perspective; as a matter of fact they tend to recreate the smokescreen of religious misunderstanding which permeated the 1928 presidential campaign.

It would seem that writers of Mr. Drummond's stature write on a topic of such vital interest to so many Americans they would be gravely obligated to their readers that everything they present as facts be well verified and extremely accurate.

BENNETT CERF

Caskie Stinnett is an unlikely name for an author, but there is one by that name. In fact, he's just written a hilarious novel called "Out of the Red." Furthermore, he's been writing funny pieces for Holiday magazine for years. Recently, the director of promotion for Holiday sent a private poll to readers demanding, "Who or what is Caskie Stinnett?" Some of the answers were vaguely disconcerting: 1. A small musical instrument played with the earlobes. 2. Judge Crater's debutante niece. 3. That stomach settler with a secret ingredient. 4. Yes — provided Russia is willing to do the same.

The death of Franklin P. Adams, at 78, leaves Dorothy Parker and George S. Kaufman as the only surviving members of the famous and brilliant Algonquin group. Miss Parker began her career as a contributor to the great Adams column, "The Conning Tower." She often said, "F. P. A. raised me from a couplet."

The first day 10-year-old Mark Topping went fishing was not exactly a success. The sun was merciless, the boat leaked and, worst of all, not one fish even nibbled at the bait. Finally Mark threw down his pole, scratched his sunburned nose, and announced, "I quit. I can't seem to get waited on."

Even With Chessman Gone, There's Still Lots To Write About

Now that Caryl Chessman is gone, where are you going to write about, they keep asking.

The answer is simple: There is plenty to write about. And you don't have to go digging either. They hit you right in the face.

During the past week, for example, you've heard of teenagers staging a daring holdup with a loaded rifle, a boy who says he's been cracking safes since he was 10, and a youngster wanted for questioning for a slaying in Washington. Similar shocking events have occurred right here in the county too.

There may be plenty of Chessmans in the making right now and here.

TO GUARD against violations, Sheriff Louis Mountanos has just received the go-ahead on setting up a juvenile bureau in the sheriff's office. Probably one sergeant and a juvenile officer.

Inspector Dick Argento will be heading for a narcotics school, and Inspector Carl Sears will specialize in polygraph examination — lie detector test. They plan to set up a lie detector machine in the sheriff's office.

Coveted plum among the sergeants and inspectors now is the new lieutenant's post which will be created to handle administration and personnel.

A RECENT headline described a prominent Marin official in these words: "He's a Square Shooter."

The official's son, who has a sense of humor, threatened to paste the headline on the wall with the last word deleted.

WHAT'S THIS we hear about a clerical worker who applied for a county job and passed all exams at the head of the list?

Rumor has it she was turned down because she owed money to several creditors.

THERE'S a movement afoot in Southern Marin to outlaw BB guns in the county area.

An irate housewife asserts there are just too many pellets flying around.

HERKIMER, the orphaned baby seal, died despite the best efforts of Humane Society officials to nurture it to maturity. Which all goes to prove what Humane Society officials have always warned:

If you find baby animals like fawns, don't touch them or cart them away. The mother is nearby and looking after it.

In Herkimer's case, it could not have been helped, the mother had died.

HAVE YOU noticed an old traffic signal planted on the front yard of a Loch Lomond home?

Maybe the owner has it rigged up so that whenever an unwanted guest shows up, the stop sign lights up.

SPEAKING OF traffic signals, San Rafael police were racing to help a woman trapped between her car and garage this week. They had lights and sirens going full blast.

All cars peeled off to the side, except one.

When another patrol car pulled up alongside to check on the driver, it turned out to be a well known county official.

The driver apologized and explained he heard the siren but couldn't tell where it was coming from. No citation issued.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Lyndon Johnson Gets His Strength From Job As Majority Leader

WASHINGTON — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson will almost certainly go to the Los Angeles convention with a bloc of committed delegates second only to Sen. Kennedy. Yet today he is the least discussed of them all.

When a stop-Kennedy movement is mentioned, it is usually Adlai Stevenson who is seen as the beneficiary.

When a convention deadlock is forecast, Sen. Stuart Symington is almost invariably put forward as the logical compromise.

Though he is not much discussed as a contender, Sen. Johnson does not fade away. He will be a formidable figure at the convention because he is a formidable figure in the party.

WHERE, THEN, does the majority leader stand with respect to the nomination and does he intend to do anything to help his cause?

You can certainly say this: if her were nominated, he would run, and, if elected, would serve. He is receptive, completely receptive.

But he sees little he can do to improve his chances that he isn't already doing. Johnson isn't shy or coy or naive. His conviction is that his strength as a contender for the presidential nomination rests wholly on the caliber of the job he does as majority leader.

HE DOES NOT intend to become either an avowed candidate or an active candidate. To do so would make it impossible for him to function effectively as majority leader of the Senate. His realistic choice is whether to retain the leadership or become an avowed and active candidate. He choses to retain the leadership.

This does not mean that Johnson will do nothing. By June at the latest, he will get out across the country to address some Democratic rallies so that more of the convention delegates can know him at first-hand. He will deliver several speeches on domestic and foreign affairs.

The imponderable factor in Johnson's candidacy is how much his large role in shaping and passing the new civil rights bill has freed him from the "Southern" label. Those who are close to the Senator feel that, on balance, he has been politically benefited.

JOHNSON HAS unusual standing in the party and in the country because of the unusual job he has done as majority leader since 1955. Under unique circumstances — with a massively popular President of the opposition party in the White House — he has come to exercise a power second only to the President.

He has made divided government work — and work remarkably well. Unlike the Democrats in 1931 and '32 under Hoover and the Republicans in 1947 and '48 under Truman, the Democratic leadership has not been negative or obstructive. The credit goes largely to Lyndon.

Some Democrats feel that he has been too responsive to the White House, too willing to compromise in order to get legislation which wouldn't be vetoed. But I suspect that he speaks for the center of the Democratic party. This is his strength as a presidential contender.

Novatans Attend Two Church Conventions

Rev. Ole Winter, pastor, and Oliver Berven, lay delegate from Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Novato, recently returned from Minneapolis, Minn., and two historic conventions of the Lutheran Church in America.

The twenty-fourth and final convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Church was the first they attended and at this convention they were voting delegates. This church body of 1,119,121 members, at one time largely Norwegian in nationality, is the synod to which Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Novato belongs. While the official business of this convention was very short, the historical significance was of greater importance. Pastor Winter quoted one of the church officials saying, "This convention is really a 'funeral' for a church, but one that all of rejoice to attend."

Following the convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Church which ended April 21, Pastor Winter and Berven attended the constituting convention of the American Lutheran Church as observers. The new new American Lutheran Church was officially born April 23. This new Lutheran Church body is composed of the American Luthern Church (largely German in origin), the Evangelical Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church (largely Danish in origin). "The new American Lutheran Church is now constituted," said Pastor Winter, "but it will not be official until Jan. 1, 1961."

With this merger of three Lutheran bodies, and another merger of four other Lutheran Synods to be consummated in 1962, there will be only three major Lutheran Synods remaining in the United States.

Mother's Day Observance Scheduled

Mother's Day will be observed at the Mill Valley First Baptist Church with morning and evening services to include music by three choirs.

The 11 a.m. service will include harp music by Mrs. Nancy Ballard of Tiburon with Mrs. Marian Colburn on the organ. Miss Claudio Colburn will sing Fenner's "When Children Play," accompanied by harp and organ. The junior choir will sing an anthem by O'Hanlon and the adult choir will also take part in the program. The morning sermon, "in Memory of Two Forgotten Mothers" will be given by Dr. F. I. Drexler.

The 7:30 p.m. service will include special numbers on both harp and organ and an arrangement of Marin Luther's hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." Two clarinets played by David Rice and Theodore Blankenship, together with organ music, will accompany this number. The evening sermon will be "An Imaginary Visit to India."

Mother, Daughter Dinner Planned

Mothers and daughters are to be honored at a turkey dinner "with the trimmings" on Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church, 50 Los Ranchitos road, San Rafael. Then men of the church are to serve the meal.

A program will follow, presented by mothers and daughters of the church. There will be a welcome, two musical numbers, a reading, song by three mothers and their daughters, a reading and a speaker from the Santa Rosa Christian Church.

Reception Held In Honor Of New Minister, Family

On April 24, a reception was held honoring Rev. E. J. Wood, new minister of the Tiburon Boulevard Baptist Church, his wife and daughter Margaret.

The reception was held on the campus of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological seminary in Broadus Hall. The church is worshipping temporarily on the seminary campus until it erects its own church buildings on property located on Tiburon boulevard.

Mrs. David P. Appleby was chairman of the reception committee. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Leola Marshall, Mrs. C. Arthur Insko, Mrs. Charles Hancock and Mrs. Kenneth Nicholson.

In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. C. Arthur Insko, Dr. and Mrs. James Lyn Elder and the Woods. Dr. Insko was chairman of the committee on pastoral services that secured Rev. Wood for the church, and Dr. Elder had served as minister of the church until the new pastor was called.

The Woods have moved into their new home at 267 Karen Way in the Belvedere-Tiburon area.

Marin Church Plans Displayed At Meeting

Proposed architectural plans for the first Unitarian Church of Marin were displayed at the third biennial convention of the Pacific Coast Unitarian Council held in Long Beach recently.

"Three sketches of our future church were presented and drew very favorable comment," said Rev. Samuel Wright, minister of Marin's Unitarian Church. "Present plans call for construction of a Unitarian Church on a knoll overlooking the new civic center area just east of Terra Linda, and Stephen Heller has been engaged as architect," said Rev. Wright.

Official Marin delegates to the convention were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rado of Mill Valley and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams of Corte Madera. Also attending meetings of the Liberal Religious Education Assn. of the Pacific Coast, held in conjunction with the convention, were Mrs. Donald Kelley, superintendent of the Unitarian Church School and Mrs. Harry Morrison of the religious education committee.

Eucharistic Congress Set This Summer

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—For a brief week this summer, picturesque old Munich becomes the devotional capital of the Roman Catholic world.

The occasion is the 37th International Eucharistic Congress which expects to play host to a million Catholics, including 3,000 church leaders from around the world, between July 31 and Aug. 7.

The congress, the largest such meeting ever held in Germany, is intended as a gigantic confession of faith in the era of atomic science and space satellites.

Heading the list of church dignitaries will be a papal legate, a cardinal yet to be named by Pope John XXIII.

There is speculation that the Pontiff himself—who has been known to break precedents before—may decide to make an unprecedented trip to the Bavarian capital for the congress.

Vatican sources insist that no such plans exist and the archbishop of Munich, Joseph Cardinal Wendel, recently told newsmen:

"The more you talk about it, the less probable it becomes."

Twenty cardinals and 192 bishops already have sent notice that they will come. The cardinals include three Americans, Spellman of New York, Cushing of Boston and Meyer of Chicago.

Munich was chosen as the congress site by the late Pope Pius XII, who once was papal nuncio here. The congresses have been held irregularly since the first gathering in Lille, France, in 1881.

Quarters for the expected visitors had to be arranged in 300 towns and villages in the vicinity of Munich since the city itself has only 15,000 beds available in hotels and boarding houses.

A tent city will be set up at Oberwiesenfeld airfield to house 100,000 youths. Fifty thousand girls will be accommodated in Munich schools; another 25,000 will camp on a race track.

The Latin motto for the congress is "pre mundi vita" (for the life of the world) and the scope of the meeting recently was outlined by Cardinal Wendel.

Church Slates Program For Mother's Day

"Life with Father and Mother" will be the sermon topic tomorrow morning when Rev. John R. Bodo takes the pulpit of Westminster Presbyterian Church of Richardson Bay.

The Mother's Day service will be an observance of what Presbyterians call Christian Home Sunday.

Dr. Bodo, who is professor of practical theology at the San Francisco Seminary at San Anselmo, was born in Budapest and came to this country in 1941. He taught for several years at Princeton Theological Seminary, where he received his doctor of theology degree. Before coming west last summer, Dr. Bodo spent eight years as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton, N.J., where his sermons and publications won him a wide reputation.

Another theologian, Dr. J. Hudson Ballard, will deliver the third in his series of four weekly lectures at Westminster next Wednesday evening. His subject will be "Controlling our Emotions," and will deal with the psychology of everyday living.

Organ Concert Set Tomorrow Night

Wilbur Russell of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, will play an organ concert at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo.

The concert, to include sacred and Gospel music, will help dedicate the church's new Leslie organ, gift of organist Don Lund.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, May 7, the 128th day of the year, with 238 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1789, the first president's inaugural ball was held in honor of George Washington.

In 1812, English poet Robert Browning was born.

In 1833, composer Johannes Brahms was born.

In 1840, Russian composer Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky was born.

In 1915, a German submarine torpedoed the Cunard liner Lusitania off the coast of Ireland, killing almost 1,200 passengers.

In 1945, Germany surrendered.

A thought for today: Robert Browning said in "Andrea Del Sarto:" "Ah, but a man's speech should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for?"

Law Gets Taste Of Willies: 'They Taught Me A Lesson'

The Giants' three Willies ganged up on Vern Law and, by his own admission, taught the classy Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher a lesson.

"These guys aren't hitting the same, and I'm not going to pitch the same here in Candlestick Park either," Law said after the Willie trio — Mays, Kirkland and McCovey —hit homers in a 5-1 San Francisco victory last night that shaved the Pirate National League lead to one game over the Giants.

It was Law's first loss after four straight victories.

The three homers all were to right field. McCovey's first inning two-run shot and Kirkland's two-run job in the fourth were a good 400 feet. Mays solo homer, his first in the new park, bounced atop the fence at the 350-foot mark and went over.

There's a constant stiff breeze blowing toward right and Kirkland and McCovey are powerful left-handed hitters. Mays swings from the other side but has power.

"Instead of standing up to the plate as they do other places," Law said, "they back way up in the box. I'll remember to keep the ball outside to the lefties and inside to the right-handers." The aim is to try and get the batter to go to left.

A former Fairfax grammar school student, Law had started and finished his four previous games. He went seven innings last night and gave up six hits.

Sam Jones won his third game against two losses with a three-hitter, his second of the year. He also has a one-hitter.

All his victories have been at Candlestick, but Sam insists he pitches the same everywhere.

Congratulated on his performance, Sam remarked: "Don't forget the home run."

That was a solo seventh inning smash by Roberto Clemente, a shot that cleared the left-centerfield fence at the 397-foot mark. It was really hit, into a crosswind.

The other hits off Jones were Rocky Nelson's single in the fourth and Bob Skinner's line shot off Jones' glove in the sixth.

"If it had hit anywhere else, I'd have been hurt," the big righthander said.

Clemente was thumbed from the game in the ninth by plate Umpire Shag Crawford for tossing his helmet after weakly popping out. The crowd of 36,592 hooted.

The teams played the second of a three-game series today. Pirate left-hander Harvey Haddix (1-1) faced Jack Sanford, San Francisco right-hander with a 2-1 record.

Marin Race All-Knotted Up; One-Hitter By Redwood Ace

First place in the Marin County Athletic League's baseball race resembled Macy's basement on Red Tag Days today following yesterday's fourth round, with three teams sharing the lead—Drake, San Rafael and Marin Catholic.

Drake pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning to edge San Rafael 4-3 and Marin Catholic piled up an early lead and managed to hang on for a 13-11 triumph over Novato.

The results left the co-leaders with 3-1 records, but the real highlight of yesterday's action was the sensational one-hit pitching of Redwood's Rich "Butch" Brear in a 5-0 shutout of the slumping Tamalpais Indians.

Brear, a junior righthander, had the Indians swinging at air as he recorded 12 strikeouts, a league record, and allowed only three men to reach base.

Dave Broome's sharp single to left field was Tam's only hit. Lou Piver was the only other Indian base runner, getting on twice on an error and a walk, the only free pass issued by Brear.

Brear's dozen strikeouts gave him a total of 30 in his 21 innings to date.

Mike Walsh with two singles drove across three runs for Redwood. Ed Vigno drove in one run and Brear scored the final marker on two errors.

The crucial game of the day saw Drake overcome an 0-3 deficit to tie San Rafael in the sixth inning and then score the clincher in the seventh when Jerry Ard got to second on an error, moved to third on a balk and scored on Vince Palavicini's booming sacrifice fly to deep center.

San Rafael took a 1-0 first inning lead on successive singles by Rich Curry, Mike Osborne and Mike Cicero. The Bulldogs made it 3-0 in the third as Cicero drove home Osborne for his second RBI and later scored on a passed bill.

Drake's Dave Christian allowed only one hit after the third, however, and his mates started to work on Bulldog pitcher Dennis Hall, whose wildness, nine walks, proved his own downfall. He gave up only two hits.

Two walks and a fielder's choice gave Drake a run in the third; Mike Bresnan's bloop single over second, with the bases loaded and two out in the sixth enabled Drake to tie it up; and finally Palavicini's sacrifice fly following the crucial Bulldog error in the seventh decided the thriller.

The boys just about wore out home plate at Marin Catholic as the hosts were led to their victory by the booming bat of Doug Wilson who hit for the circuit—homer, triple, double and single—driving across six runs. Jack Hendrickson also hit a two-run homer for Marin.

Leading Novato hitters were Mike Melovich with three hits and Lou Haas and Hank Lautrup with two each.

Venture Only 1 Back In Vegas Tournament

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Jerry Barber, installed as a 15-1 shot because he was regarded as too little to tour a long golf course with success, led the field into today's third round of the Tournament of Champions.

The 130-pound fairways veteran from Los Angeles fired a six-under-par 66 yesterday for a 135 score at the end of the first 36 holes.

That put him one shot ahead of Ken Venturi, Palo Alto, Calif., and Jay Hebert, Lafayette, La., and two ahead of Arnold Palmer of Ligionier, Pa., and Julius Boros, of Mid Pines, N.C.

This was supposed to be a course "made" for men long off the tee with a light putting touch. Barber has the putting—but is the shortest hitter in the field of 21 champions.

"But those greens were so wonderful," he said. "And when I have a round like this I feel like the best damn player in the world."

Jerry, always noted for his finesse around the greens, knocked in putts from 40, 20, 16 and 10 feet for birdies. Others he got from three to five feet when he knocked his approaches stiff. He had nines of 34-32.

But even his round wasn't the best. Palmer and young Tom Nieporte, Bronxville, N.Y. each fired seven under par 65s to equal the course record—helped along with perfect weather. They each had five under par 31st on the back nine.

Meanwhile, the long-shot leaders of the first day had to be content with even pars yesterday. Don Whitt, Borrego Springs, Calif., and Dave Ragan, Orlando, Fla., each had 72 and went into a five-way tie for 8th place with defending champion Mike Souchak, Art Wall and Jack Fleck.

Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Nieporte were tied at 138.

Finals of the 72 hole event will be staged tomorrow.

L.A. Trades Amoros And Rip Repulski

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sandy Amoros, who made one of baseball's most famous catches, and Rip Repulski, who got his moving notice a bit sooner because of Duke Snider, have been traded to American League clubs by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Detroit Tigers announced last night in Boston they have obtained Amoros, the outfielder whose catch of a Yogi Berra fly helped the Dodgers defeat the New York Yankees in the decisive seventh game of the 1955 World Series, from Los Angeles. In exchange for Amoros, the Tigers will send first baseman Gail Harris to the Dodgers' St. Paul farm team in the American Association.

Snider, the avocado farmer who plays right field for the Dodgers, said on his radio show last night that the Dodgers had traded Repulski to the Boston Red Sox. The Dodgers at first refused to confirm or deny the report but later admitted it was true.

The Dodgers will get pitcher Nelson Chittum from the Red Sox and plan to send him to their Montreal farm club in the International League.

M.V. GIANTS WIN

The Giants outlasted the Merchants 12-11 in a wild Mill Valley National Little League contest last night.

STATE PLANTS BONUS BASS IN BAY WATERS

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Fishermen: Watch for bonus bass in the bay.

The Fish and Game Department reported today some 250 striped bass will carry $5 reward tags in the San Francisco Bay and Delta areas this year.

Reward tags are in two color combinations — yellow with black lettering and white with red lettering.

The department hopes the bonuses will encourage fishermen to send in all tags found on bass. This helps the state gain information on striped bass habits and migrations.

Novato Men Enter Skin Diving Meet

Two Novato skin divers, Al Johnson and Richard McCandless, will represent the Sonoma County Reef Runners in the 1960 Central California competitive skin diving championships tomorrow.

The event will be held at Salt Point Ranch on the Mendocino County coast between Timber Cove and Kruse Ranch on Highway 1.

Ex-Boston Pitcher Vern Bickford Dies

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Vern Bickford, 39, who won 66 games, including a no-hitter, and lost 57 pitching for the old Boston Braves of the National League from 1948 to 1954, died yesterday of cancer.

Pastrano In TV Victory Over Johnson

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Willie Pastrano is looking forward to richer and more important fights now that he has proved to himself he is a better light heavyweight than a heavyweight.

Nearly a year ago, the flashy Miami Beach, Fla. scrapper dropped a close decision to Pittsburgh's Alonzo Johnson while weighing 188 pounds.

Last night he had stripped down to 178 and handed the same Johnson a licking in the nationally-televised Kentucky Derby Eve fight at Freedom Hall.

"Boy, you should remain a light heavy," Johnson told Pastrano as he extended congratulations after the dull 10-rounder. Pastrano won on all three cards. Referee Don Asbury gave it to him 50-46. Judge Walter Beck scored it 48-45 and Judge Walter Buchrop 48-43. On the AP card, Pastrano won 48-44.

Pastrano, who was outweighed 10 pounds by Johnson, said he didn't tire as much at the lighter weight.

"I felt that I was faster and was able to make Johnson fight my fight," he said.

Heikkila, Figure In Deportation Case, Dies Unexpectedly

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—William K. Heikkila, the one-armed draftsman whom the United States has been trying to deport to Finland for 13 years, died unexpectedly today of a heart seizure. He was 58.

Heikkila came to international attention two years ago when immigration officials seized him on the city streets on his way home from work and whisked him out of the country.

Because of pending court action, the U. S. government flew him back from Finland and continued efforts to deport him as a foreign-born ex-Communist.

His death at his home was a "complete and total shock" said his attorney, Lloyd McMurray. He had undergone a heart checkup in April.

Heikkila's case was pending in the U. S. Court of Appeals at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, Phyllis.

HARLAN

came close to leading Sacramento figures but on running for reelection in 1913 he was defeated, which caused him to turn his energies to dreams of municipal corporations. This led to his becoming a key fugure in formation of the Marin Municipal Water District, in which he capitalized on some recently passed little-known state legislation.

He repeated this procedure in 1913 when he laid groundwork for the then undreamed-of $35,000,000 Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

He set the stage in 1925 for creation of the Marin Junior College District, today operated as the College of Marin.

While first attorney for the water district he became associated with present Marin Superior Judge N. Charles Brusatori, with whom he kept close working arrangements until Harlan's retirement in 1947, though Harlan's name was kept on the firm's Albert Building offices until 1953 when Brusatori went on the superior court bench.

From the early 1920s, Harlan lived at 191 Harrison avenue, Sausalito. One son, George Jr. of San Rafael, achieved fame as a writer, historian and authority on early California transportation. Another son, John, became a Sausalito publisher.

His wife, the former Esther Greaves whom he married in 1908, died in 1956.

Board Considers Helping Build New Sewer Plant

San Rafael Sanitation Commission members are considering the possibility of helping build a new treatment plant north of China Camp to handle the ultimate growth of the McNear ranch.

Latipac-Perini Inc., developers of Riviera Marin, plan to build a plant to serve their needs. The sanitation commissioners decided yesterday it would be "worth considering" the possibility of making the plant large enough to handle the ultimate growth in the area.

They asked sanitation engineer Harry Jenks to bring in a report of the maximum capacity that could be permitted for the proposed treatment plant. Jenks' report is expected at the next meeting, set for 1 p.m. on May 19.

Sen. Humphrey Due In Novato

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) will make his first California appearance during his present campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination by attending a luncheon of the Novato Community Club June 1, according to a telegram to Novato attorney Robert Carrow.

Carrow is head of a committee seeking election of Rep. Clement W. Miller of Corte Madera. Last month it occurred to him that Miller's fortunes might be favored by publicity surrounding a visit to Novato so he applied to Washington. Acceptance has now arrived from James Loeb, campaign manager for Humphrey.

Plans are for Humphrey to fly from Washington to San Francisco the morning of June 1 and to drive up to Novato immediately after arrival.

Those receiving him also will include Joseph Wilson and Charles Geller, Democratic candidates respectively for state assembly and senate.

Novato Youth Extradited To Washington

George Bailey, 14-year-old Novato boy who broke into Lynwood School last weekend, is headed for Lewis County, Wash., for questioning in connection with the rape-slaying of a 9-year-old girl there.

After an extradition hearing late yesterday in Marin Juvenile Court, Judge N. Charles Brusatori turned the boy over to Chief Criminal Deputy Clarence S. Moore of the Lewis County sheriff's office.

Deputy Moore came with extradition papers for delivery of the juvenile under the Interstate Compact, provided for in the Welfare and Institutions Code. Assistant Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety said this is the first time to his knowledge that a juvenile has been extradited from Marin under this particular code section.

Judge Brusatori appointed Deputy Public Defender Jerome Durham to represent the youth at the hearing. Durham examined the extradition papers and found nothing illegal about the proceedings.

Deputy Moore told newsmen he is taking the boy back as an escapee from Western State Hospital, a mental institution in Washington from which the boy escaped three times.

Sherry Marie Ergell, 9, of Centralia, was kidnaped from her home last September, assaulted and murdered about Sept. 25. Police hope the boy can shed some light on this incident.

The youngster and his 11-year-old brother testified yesterday during a preliminary hearing for their mother, Ida Mae Carter, 36. She was held to answer in Marin Superior Court on a charge of contributing to her sons' delinquency.

Hagerty said he had, but added that there would be no comment either from the President or by Hagerty.

In Washington, associate House press secretary Anne Wheaton also said there would be no comment on the Khrushchev statement. She and Hagerty both told reporters that if any comment is made it will come from the State Department.

Mrs. Wheaton did say the President still has plans to leave next weekend for the East-West summit meeting starting May 16 in Paris.

Stop Sign Hit By Car In San Rafael

A retired colonel's wife from Sonoma lost control of her car in San Rafael Thursday and rammed a stop sign on Irwin street near Francisco boulevard.

Mrs. Mary Jane Sinton was dazed from shock and nervousness, Police Sgt. Lincoln Borba reported. She was examined at San Rafael General Hospital and transferred to Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital.

Mrs. Sinton was turning onto Irwin from Francisco boulevard about 4 p.m. when she was blinded by the sun, she said. Her car rammed a stop sign. Police said damage was minor.

Coast Guardsman Given Jail Term

A Coast Guardsman from Pt. Reyes Lifeboat Station, who broke into Rite Price Market in Inverness last February, must serve 90 days in county jail and make restitution for the cash and goods he took.

Theodore R. Abrams, 22, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Richard M. Sims in Marin Superior Court. The judge suspended a one-year jail sentence and put the Coast Guardsman on three years probation on condition he serve 90 days and make restitution.

Abrams testified he had been drinking heavily and did not know what he was doing.

SUN RINGED AS RAYS PASS THROUGH ICE

You weren't seeing things today—there really was a ring around the sun.

A spokesman for the U.S. Weather Bureau at San Francisco International Airport said the phenomenon was a "rare setup in nature" when the sun's rays shine through a weak weather front of ice-bearing cirrus clouds.

The rays of the sun bounced off ice crystals, leaving the optic effect of a ring. When the ring is colored, as it was today "things have to be exactly right — the sun shines through a sea of ice," the spokesman said. White rings are rather ordinary, while ones in color are a real rarity, he said.

since 1889 and the possibility of a freeway cutting through to the edge of Dominican property across Grand avenue prompted consideration of the Rausch purchase.

The Sisters hope the new school site would be ready for occupancy in two years, but Mother Justin stressed the abandonment of the San Rafael campus would be a "long-term affair" with the college eventually taking over the entire campus.

The new campus is slated to have facilities for the boarding of 240 high school students and 200 grammar school pupils. There will also be a swimming pool, hockey field, tennis courts, gymnasium and riding trails.

The San Francisco architectural firm of Schubart and Freidman has been selected to draw up plans for the new school, reported Mother Justin. Although no plans have been drawn as yet, Mother Justin said she thought the new building would be small, modern structures scattered over a good-sized campus.

Prior to discussion of widening U.S. 101 up to the edge of Dominican property, the Sisters had planned on building a new school across from the present site.

Henry Schubart of Schubart and Friedman will explain plans of the proposed school to members of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Assn. at a special meeting in the clubhouse Thursday at 8 p.m.

Tam Valley Club Members To View Slides On Plants

The Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club will be shown slides on plants and spring flowers by a representative of Egger and Son nurseries at its meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the clubhouse.

The purpose of this, according to Mrs. Nick Monteleone, is to get ideas on how to spruce up and beautify the valley. The club will also hear a report on the funds raised from its musical, "Rhubarb Revue."

Mrs. Monteleone said the Kay Park Homeowners in Tamalpais Valley will hold a spring dance at 9 p.m. next Saturday at the clubhouse. There will be a fashion show at the club at 1 p.m. on June 4, she said.

'Disaster' Drill Planned By Club

A "disaster communications drill" including mobile units with radio direction finders will be held by the Marin Amateur Radio Club tonight starting at 7:30.

The mobile units are to search for a hidden transmitter. They may be recognized by radio amateur license plates and the fact that each car will carry a mounted radio direction-finder loop.

The drill is a quarterly test, lasting two or three hours. Warning was given that anyone picking up messages of 3885 kilocycles in the 75-meter band should understand that they are fictitious.

Modern Eve Shops Not Open Monday

The Modern Eve Shops, women's apparel stores, at 1417 Grant avenue, Novato, and 1021 Fourth street, San Rafael, will not be open for business Monday.

It was erroneously reported in an advertisement Thursday that they would be open.

Modern Eve has been closed Mondays so employees can have a full day off in addition to Sunday.

HOLDUP

$10 bills from the cash register along with some change.

Without further molesting the patrons, the stranger then said:

"Give me 10 seconds. I have someone waiting for me outside in a car. The first one that moves gets it in the head."

Then he fled through the front door. But nobody heard or saw a car, leading to surmise that this was just a bluff. All later agreed that the bandit was calm and cool at all times.

Happy to see the stranger gone but uncertain whether he really had gone, those remaining inside hastily locked the front door and Todt put through a call to San Rafael police at 1:27 a.m.

Policemen Eugene Frederick and Charles Hickey were more than prompt, arriving at the front door at 1:28 a.m. But they felt baffled at discovering it locked against them.

Surmising that maybe the bandit was still inside, they put in a call for reinforcements which soon arrived when the door was rattled vigorously and Todt opened up.

Search of the premises disclosed a .38-caliber bullet on the floor, not discharged and believed to have been dropped when the stranger pulled his gun.

The bandit's beer glass was taken as additional evidence for possible fingerprints. Three patrons agreed that a police picture bore striking resemblance to the gunman, but the subject of the photo had recently moved from his last known address.

Princess In Marin Visit

Princess Ileana of Rumania visited Muir Woods yesterday with Mrs. Charles Carroll of Fairfax, with whom she has been staying at 23 Manor view during a five-day visit to the Bay Area.

They were led through Muir Woods by ranger Theodore Picco. According to Mrs. Carroll, the princess said she "would like to return to the woods when she has more time to enjoy the many trails."

Mrs. Carroll and her husband, Rev. Charles Carroll of the St. Augustan Mission in Fairfax and minister at the Downtown Chapel of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco, have been friends of Princess Ileana seven years.

Mrs. Carroll said they met in New Bedford, Mass. The princess lives with her husband, Dr. Stephan Issariscu, at Newton, Mass.

Princess Ileana, in America for 10 years, came to the West Coast on a lecture tour under the auspices of the Episcopal Church. She left for Los Angeles this morning.

Police Nab Airman After Speed Chase

A master sergeant from Hamilton Air Force Base led Marin sheriff's deputies on a 90-mile-per-hour chase from Black Point Cutoff to Novato early yesterday.

When stopped at Vallejo street about 2:15 a.m. M/Sgt. William T. Johnson, 40, admitted he was driving "like a fool kid," according to Sheriff's Sgt. Joseph E. Mooney.

Booked at county jail on suspicion of drunken driving, Johnson was bailed out for $263. He will appear in Marin Municipal Court Monday afternoon. The sergeant is attached to the Western Air Defense Force Headquarters Squadron.

Diplomat Involved In Marin Smashup

The Yugoslavia consul general in San Francisco was involved in a motor mixup with two cooks from Tiburon Tommy's of Tiburon on Highway 101 near the Marin City turnoff at 2 a.m. today.

Johnny K. Wu Mon Jong, 32, riding as passenger in a new 1960 model car driven by Jack Mah, 21, suffered a cut over one eye for which he received emergency treatment at Marin General Hospital.

Vasilije Kavaceuic, 48, the consul general, wasn't hurt but his car—likewise a new 1960 model—came off with an impaired rear bumper whereas Mah's car suffered front end damage.

Circumstances of the collision, with both cars southbound 300 feet north of the Marin City turnoff, were still being investigated by the California Highway Patrol. All involved live in San Francisco.

Old Bolshevik Quits Russ Presidency

MOSCOW (AP) — Marshal Klementi Y. Voroshilov, a squat bull-throated old Bolshevik who was one of Stalin's closet associates, resigned today from his figurehead job as president of the Soviet Union. Now 79 and ailing, he gave bad health as the reason.

Succeeding Voroshilov is Leonid I. Brezhnev, 54, a secretary of the Soviet party's Central Committee and an alternate member of the party Presidium. His carreer was launched in Premier Nikita Khrushchev's party machine in the Ukraine.

The change was announced at a joint session of the Supreme Soviet, or Parliament, by Chairman P. P. Lobanov of the House of the Union.

HONORED

The Supreme Soviet endorsed a decree awarding Voroshilov the title of Hero of Socialist Labor. He was awarded the order of Lenin and the Hammer and Sickle Gold Medal. These were in recognition of his work for the party cause since he joined the Communists in 1903, when they were an underground organization in Czarist Russia.

Khrushchev characterized Brezhnev as an outstanding public leader. The premier said the Central Committee is convinced that Brezhnev is a worthy candidate for the presidency—officially chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

PARTY MEMBER

He has been a party member since 1931.

Brezhnev headed the Dnepropetrovsk party organization after World War II and became chief of the party in the Moldavian Republic.

At the 20th party congress in October, 1952, he was made a secretary of the Central Committee in Moscow and an alternate member of the party Presidium.

After Stalin's death in 1953 he was demoted to a post as chief of the political department of the Soviet Navy. Then he was appointed deputy chief of the Communist Party in Kazakhstan and in 1955 became its chief.

In February, 1956, he again was made a secretary of the Central Committee and an alternate member of the party Presidium.

They were Roger F. Morse of Corte Madera, named Marin County chairman, and W. P. Murray of San Rafael, who will serve as treasurer of the committee.

Morse is a mechanical engineer, member of the town council since 1956, just finished a term as mayor, and was chairman of the Tamalpais High School District bond campaigns in 1953 and 1954.

Murray is president of the First National Bank in San Rafael.

Mrs. Frances Duncan of Garberville was named women's vice chairman.

Robert L. Bishop of Santa Rosa, general chairman, also announced the following county chairmen:

Bolinas School Gets Building At A Bargain

Bolinas School District will soon buy a new building for $2.50.

But the cost of getting it on the Bolinas School premises will run about $150, according to district clerk Arthur E. Carpenter.

The structure is a small storage building about 10 by 20 feet in size, now at Camp Stoneman Military Reservation near Pittsburg, Contra Costa County.

A telegram to the Independent-Journal today from U. S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said that the General Services Administration has authorized its regional commissioner in San Francisco to assign 16 buildings and personal property at the camp, surplus to Army needs, to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for transfer to several school districts and removal to new sites for educational purposes.

This is to be on payment of 5 per cent of the valuation and Bolinas School District was especially mentioned as among those to benefit.

Carpenter explained that the district had put in application for one building some five or six months ago, and had been awaiting word of the action.

The "educational purposes" to be served at Bolinas will be the housing of an oil tank, lawn mower and extra desks out behind the main school building.

Carpenter said that additional to the cost of transporting the building there will be a little extra expense for a concrete foundation. But it's a bargain anyhow, he said.

Texas Demos To Hold Key Sessions

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texas Democrats hold precinct conventions with presidential significance tonight. The conventions climax a day of voting in which the party will nominate thousands of candidates.

The precincts will determine whether Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) faces even minor home state opposition to his active but unannounced bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The sessions will name delegates to the June 14 state convention where Texas' 61 delegates to the national nominating convention will be elected.

Opposition to Johnson, if it appears at all, is expected to be minor. It could come from the liberal-labor-party loyalist minority of the party.

The income tax case of Dr. William E. Bortfeld, dentist who resides in Ross and practices in Mill Valley, was continued yesterday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco for a May 24 plea, so that his attorney can acquaint himself further with the matter.

Bortfeld was indicted last month by a federal grand jury on a misdemeanor charge of failing to file income tax returns from 1954 through 1957. James B. Schnake, assistant U. S. district attorney, said Bortfeld had reportable income during the period of $56,719. He had filed no return between 1946 and 1958, said Schnake, but prosecution for the years before 1954 was outlawed by the statute of limitations.

'Suspicious' Parents Are Only Trying To Protect Teen-Agers

"We're mad ot our parents," say two 15-year-old girls in a joint letter. "We want you to help us.

"Our fathers are suspicious The questions they ask show they think we're dirty. We believe they have guilty consciences. They won't let us go out week nights. They make us get home before midnight on Saturdays.

"Our boy friends say our parents are squares. We agree. We are planning to run away. Do girls ever get by with that? Or are they always caught and returned home? Why do our parents treat us this way?"

My answers will be hard for you to accept. However, I hope you will try.

Most girls of your age are unhappy with their parents. Fifteen seems to be the peak year for girls' rebellion. You feel instinctively that you should be completely independent. Your parents are aware of your weaknesses. They see risks which you do not see. They love. They are trying to protect you. You fight back, and everyone gets mad.

They don't argue with you because they enjoy arguing. They enforce their rules because they know they must. The conflict you feel in inevitable in good homes with girls of your age.

Don't run away. You would be caught and returned quickly. Then you'd have even more trouble.

Probably your fathers do not have guilty consciences. They just are worried.

Is there a teacher at school whom you know and trust, or a woman at church? Or some other reliable, friendly adult? Please talk about these things with her. She'll help you understand. You'll gain your independence fastest by showing your parents that you can be responsible, dependable girls.

If you can demonstrate good judgment you'll win them over.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

C Q R C L R R Z M T Y V R L C H Z X T H
J L Z F O F Q R X F U C R L R A V H C Q R
V T Z Z A Z M C H L U X C O — V U L R L R.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: 'TIS NOT IN MORTALS TO COMMAND SUCCESS—ADDISON.

Hub Board To Get Teacher's Views

What does a teacher from England think about the American school system?

This question will be dealt with at 8 p.m. Monday when the board of trustees of the San Anselmo School District meets in the Isabel Cook School faculty room.

Keith Leckie, Fulbright exchange teacher for the past year in the eighth grade at Brookside School, will tell the board his impressions gained from his assignment.

The board will also consider tenure of some teachers and resignations of others, a report on the report card system, and the attorney general's opinion regarding payment for superintendent candidates' travel to San Anselmo.

Novato Pastor To Be Missionary

Rev. and Mrs. Ted Lindwall, of the First Baptist Church of Novato, are en route to Richmond, Va., where they will be appointed as Southern Baptist missionaries to Guatemala.

The pastor announced to the church his appointment during the morning worship service last Sunday. He indicated the family will remain in Novato until August, when they leave for a year of language study in San Jose, Costa Rica.

The Lindwalls will join a present force of 1428 missionaries of the convention who are serving in all continents and in 44 countries. Rev. Lindwall will serve as a general missionary and as a teacher in the Baptist seminary in Guatemala City.

Gate Plan Unit To Hold Hearing

The Golden Gate Authority Commission will hold a public hearing at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the supervisors' chambers at the courthouse in San Rafael to obtain information on the Golden Gate Bridge as it might fit into a Bay Area co-ordinated management.

Areas of information to be covered will include facilities, operations and jurisdiction of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, the relationship of the bridge to others in the area and to transportation facilities in general in the Bay Area.

Written statements may be presented in 12 copies to the commission at 721 Flood Building, San Francisco, prior to the hearing.

Novato Girl To Attend Science Group Meet

Dannelle Smith, Novato High School junior, is one of 18 students in the state who will attend the National Science Foundation program at the College of the Pacific in Stockton, June 12 to July 22.

Miss Smith hopes to concentrate on the study of chemistry during the session.

Methodists In Challenge To Critics

DENVER (UPI) — The Methodist General Conference has issued a challenge to an unofficial group of its laymen because of disloyalty charges against members of the clergy.

The challenge, calling on "any organization which has charges or accusations to make against any Methodist to make them through our church courts," was handed down by the denomination's legislative body late yesterday in one of the final actions before adjournment.

Its primary target was Circuit Riders, Inc., an organization headed by Myers G. Lowman of Cincinnati who has been included in a National Council of Churches list of "those who have attacked the National Council of Churches and Protestant clergymen and laymen."

Daylight Prowler Hits Greenbrae Home Again

A daylight prowler struck for the second time at the Greenbrae home of Norman T. Johnsen, building contractor, at 50 Almenar drive Thursday afternoon.

Johnsen told Sheriff's Deputy Arthur Wiggins he arrived home at night to find the rear screen door cut. Someone had prowled the house, taking a hunting knife and house keys but nothing else of value. A similar entry occurred at Johnsen's home about two weeks ago.

OTHER DISTINCTIVE NEW HOMES
3 and 4 Bedrooms—from $31,500

Why not have YOUR dream home individually designed and built to meet your OWN desires on a Greenbrae lot of your selection as so many others have done. You can choose your own builder.

LOTS LOTS LOTS

With unobstructed views of
S.F. Bay, East Bay cities, Bay bridges
Mt. Tamalpais, Marin's wooded hills and valleys or, if you prefer seclusion, a wide selection of lots with oaks is still available. Many sites are nearly level or already graded with level building sites. Street improvements are in and paid for—no street bonds. These are the finest close-in lots in the Bay Area and you can buy for less than you would pay for lots offered in areas that hope to have in 20 years what Greenbrae has right now. So buy now—build when you are ready.

A FEW EXAMPLES—

$4850—¾ acre hillside with 195 ft. frontage. Heavily wooded with oaks, Madrones, etc. Gorgeous view of the Bay and Mt. Tamalpais. Adaptable to building with extra living area downstairs and to favoring every room with the view.

$6850—100 ft. street frontage on a quiet, semi-secluded cul de sac street. Upslope with a wide graded building site and some oaks. Lends itself to various types of architecture in a beautiful setting.

$8500—Approximately ½ acre set back from the street with provision for a private driveway. Wide level area suitable for a rambling ranch type home with plenty of space for a pool and other outdoor activities. Beautiful view of Mt. Tamalpais and part of Ross Valley. Just 2 blocks from school. This is a "pick up."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Divorce Rule Changed

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The Methodist Church today was rid of its requirement that a divorced person must be adjudged innocent before he can be considered fit for remarriage.

The old rule specified that only the "innocent party" to a divorce could be remarried in the church.

In throwing out the restriction, the denomination's lawmaking general conference late last night substituted broader provisions, basing eligibility for remarriage on a person's improved attitudes and intentions.

Smasher Funds Lose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has rejected an administration request for 107 million dollars to build a huge atom smasher at Stanford University.

Instead the House yesterday approved a three million dollar authorization for engineering design and blueprints.

The vote against the larger request was 194-129 and was roughly along party lines as Democrats opposed the measure.

Dr. Moore Lagging

MAYBELL, Colo (UPI) — Dr. Barbara Moore, the London vegetarian who has walked more than 1,100 miles in 25 days, lagged far behind today in her cross-country race with two British army sergeants.

Sgts. Mervyn Evans and Patrick Moloney were nearly 100 miles further east when they broke camp near Rock River, Wyo., early today and headed for Laramie.

Dr. Moore, plagued for three days by blistered toes and bad weather, has been losing ground steadily on her U.S. 40 route through Colorado's central Rocky Mountains.

Dr. Moore, who subsists on honey, vegetables, vegetable juices and grass, has lost seven pounds since leaving San Francisco. But she says she will beef up her present 123 pounds when she hits good grass country again.

Butler To Quit Job

ATLANTA (UPI)—Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler said last night that he will resign after the national convention in July.

Butler, whose outspoken comments have stirred controversy in his own party, said his action will "make some Democrats happy."

Film Writers Honored

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Diary of Anne Frank" was named last night as the best written American movie drama of 1959 by the Writers Guild.

Awards went to Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett.

Other winners: Best written comedy: "Some Like It Hot," Billy Wilder and A. L. Diamond; best written musical: "The Five Pennies," Jack Rose and Melville Shavelson.

X-15 Flight Slated

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — Test pilot Joe Walker will fly the X-15 rocket plane on a new 100-mile straight-run flight sometime next week.

The 38-year-old National Aeronautics and Space Administration pilot said yesterday at a briefing he didn't plan to take the stub-winged craft all out on his first trip from Silver Lake to Rogers Dry Lake.

Ship Picketing Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Picketing of an Egyptian freighter in New York Harbor was at an end today, along with a growing boycott that the Arab world had summoned up to counter it in the Middle East.

Picketing of the ship Cleopatra stopped yesterday after the State Department promised it would try new steps to halt Arab blacklisting of American ships dealing with Israel.

The settlement was the climax of an unusual experiment in international bargaining by picket line.

Johnson Picked

ELY, Nev. (AP) — Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton says Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas is the Democrat most likely to meet the Republicans presidential nominee in November.

Seaton ranked Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts second.

Ike Signs Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower has singed the 1960 civil rights bill into law. He commented it held "great promise" of guaranteeing the Constitutional voting rights of all Americans regardless of race.

Eisenhower signed the measure yesterday and appealed to "all responsible persons" to help assure equality of the law to Negroes and white alike.

Quemoy Bombarded

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists today fired 67 shells against the Quemoy Islands before daybreak, the heaviest attack since April 7.

Fire Levels Factory

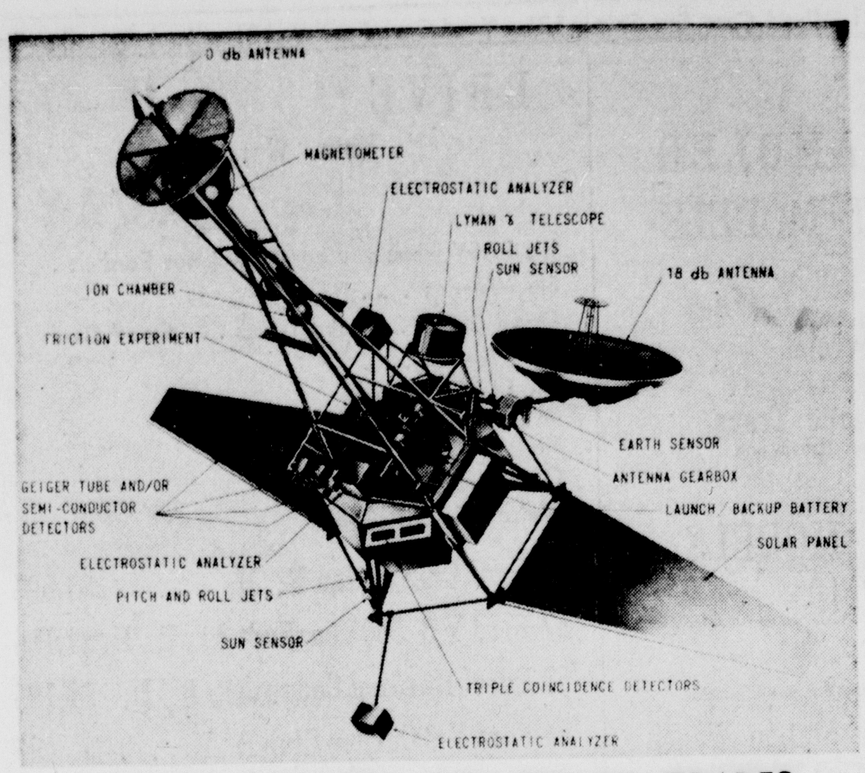

DERRY, N.H. (AP) — An estimated 150 persons today were homeless and 325 without jobs when flames destroyed 14 tenement houses and a big shoe factory.

Most families lost all their possessions in fleeing for their lives last night.

The Chelmsford Shoe Co., a major industry in this southern New Hampshire town of 5,000, burned to the ground. Nobody was in the plant when the fire started. The fire also destroyed 15 automobiles.

Indonesia Apologizes

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Indonesian government today apologized to the Netherlands for student raids on Dutch diplomatic headquarters in Jakarta.

INTERPLANETARY JACK OF ALL TRADES

This is the versatile little space craft called the Ranger, being developed by the U.S. at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's jet propulsion laboratory at Pasadena. It is expected to help take the exploration of the moon, Mars and Venus out of the "dream" stage. The first test flight is scheduled for next year. And in due time it will be landing instruments on the moon that will tell us a great deal about that natural satellite. The Ranger is 12 feet long, five feet in diameter, and weighs 800 pounds. (UPI Telephoto)

Ike-Planned Labor Meet Floundering

WASHINGTON (AP) — The labor-management "summit" conferences initiated by President Eisenhower apparently are floundering even before they get started.

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO said it is up to Eisenhower and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell to get arrangements straightened out.

Labor union chiefs said industry's choice of a team for an initial planning session seemed to foredoom the whole idea. A spokesman for the National Assn. of Manufacturers retorted that the labor chiefs can't expect to dictate management's representatives.

"If the conferences are torpedoed it won't be our fault," said an NAM spokesman in New York. "Our people are ready and willing to talk."

'SLAP IN FACE'

Top AFL-CIO leaders said the industry-selected conferees were "a slap in the face to President Eisenhower." Meany had named himself, United Auto Union President Walter Reuther and rail union leader George Harrison as labor's trio of conferees.

Eisenhower asked each side to name three men to plan an agenda and other arrangements for a series of meetings that would seek understandings to smooth labor-management relations, spur economic growth and help insure price stability, among other objectives.

Eisenhower specified the management representatives should be presidents or board chairmen of firms having collective bargaining agreements with AFL-CIO unions.

CHOICES

The NAM designated presidents William J. Grebe, Racine, Wis., of the J. I. Case farm equipment manufacturing company; L. A. Peterson, Yonkers, N.Y., of the Otis Elevator Co., and Robert W. Stoddard, Worcester, Mass., Wyman-Gordon Co.

The labor unionists complained two Case company plants have been struck by Reuther's Auto Workers Union for several months. They questioned the existence of collective bargaining agreements under those circumstances.

The labor men said the NAM-designated trio represents a lower management echelon than the heads of General Motors, U.S. Steel and similar firms whom they had expected to be disignated.

A crowning blow, they said, was that president Rudolph Bannow of the NAM indicated he expected to attend.

'Draft-Dodger' Issue Disavowed By Kennedy

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) last night disavowed a statement by one of his top campaign aides, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey sought draft deferments in World War II.

Kennedy, who had a distinguished war record as a naval officer aboard a patrol boat sunk by the Japanese in the Pacific, issued a statement declaring:

"Any discussion of the war record of Sen. Humphrey was done without my knowledge and consent and I disapprove of the injection of this issue into the campaign."

Humphrey did not serve in the armed forces. He has explained that he was disqualified by a hernia.

Earlier in the day, Roosevelt had charged that Humphrey had requested a number of deferments from military service and that letters had been written for him saying he was a political organizer whose services were needed in Minnesota.

Roosevelt added that Humphrey was turned down by the Naval Reserve in July, 1944, with no reason stated. And later, he said, when the draft board was pressing, another appeal was made describing Humphrey as representing a war-essential industry with 85 workers.

WAS 4F

Humphrey was inducted in 1945, Roosevelt said, but was then turned down as 4F because of a hernia.

"Did you call Sen. Humphrey a draft dodger?" a reporter asked.

I've never said that and I never meant that," Roosevelt replied. "I did not use that phrase."

"The record speaks for itself," he added.

"My whole emphasis on Sen. Kennedy's war record," he went on, "is that any man who has known war recognizes the vital necessity for peace. It is also possible that man who was not in the service could realize the same necessity."

But in a brief statement issued by Kennedy headquarters Roosevelt stated:

REGRETS IT

"I do not feel that this is of importance in this campaign and I regret that it has been forced into an issue."

In his own statement disassociating himself from the references to Humphrey's lack of military service, Kennedy asserted that the contest in this state's primary Tuesday should be settled strictly on the issues facing the nation today.

"I know Sen. Humphrey is an able and dedicated public servant," he concluded.

News of this latest twist in the campaign reached Humphrey as he stumped in the southern part of the state.

WON'T COMMENT

"No comment," he said.

For his part he kept hitting away at the matter of Kennedy's personal wealth, referring to his opponent's literature and advertisements as "the most lavish, extravagant and expensive campaign program West Virginians have ever known."

"It's up to the voters," he told an audience at Pineville, "If they want this campaign decided by measurement of money that can be expended or the philosophies of the candidates."

Hikers Fall Far Short Of Goal

Two runaway girls from San Francisco, aged 15 and 13, tried to make like cross-country walker Dr. Barbara Moore Thursday evening, but they fell a thousand miles short of their goal.

With a heavy suitcase between them, they were plodding north on the Waldo grade near Spencer avenue about 5 p.m., headed, they said, for Princeton, Minn. But unlike Dr. Moore, who has been shunning rides, the girls got a lift—to Marin Juvenile Hall.

Sheriff's Deputies Frederick Marcus and Charles Prandi said the girls gave phony names and said they were visiting a 19-year-old cousin in San Francisco, a sailor. They said he took off for sea, and they lost their plane tickets. So, they claimed, they decided to hoof it to Minnesota.

Their parents came from San Francisco to pick the girls up at juvenile hall and march them right back to their starting point.

Honeymooners' Yacht Heads Fo Caribbean

LONDON (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Antony Armstrong-Jones sailed westward through the placid waters of the English Channel today, bound for a sunshine honeymoon in the Caribbean.

To the customary "wither bound?" signal from Channel shore stations, the royal yacht Britannia carrying Princess Margaret and her commoner husband flashed back the jaunty reply of olden-day British sea dogs:

"Destination unknown—high seas."

Then the ship closed its radio to all but official messages.

SPECULATION

The Britannia was headed for the West Indies but no port of call has been announced. Most speculation favored Trinidad, which Margaret has visited before and was warmly greeted as the "calypso princess."

Others suggested the honeymooners might swing northward and call at a U.S. Gulf port such as New Orleans or the Florida coast.

The British Admiralty refused to say.

Behind the princess was a wedding day of never-to-be forgotten magnificence and pageantry.

EXCITEMENT

It was a day of sunshine, smiles and the thundering cheers of close on two million excited Britons for their favorite princess and the man of her choice.

An estimated 250 million people throughout Britain and Western Europe either watched or heard the solemn Anglican wedding ceremony yesterday in Westminster Abbey on radio or television.

They saw a dazzling bride in a wedding gown of purest white and a handsome bridegroom, diffident and sometimes nervous—the first man without a title to marry an English princess in 450 years.

FAREWELL

The newlyweds finally waved goodbye to London as the Britannia cleared Tower Bridge over the Thames. As they waved Margaret was seen in one of her first wifely acts—flicking confetti from Tony's dark blue suit.

Britain stretched its farewell the length of the river and down to the sea.

The honeymoon is expected to last about six weeks.

Queen Elizabeth, the bride's elder sister, lent them the royal yacht to escape rubbernecking crowds in their first weeks of married life.

Senate Leaders Outline Heavy Work Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders have outlined a big load of work for Congress in the final nine weeks of the 1960 session before the national political conventions.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) praised his colleagues highly for five days of hard work before the Senate quit yesterday for the weekend.

He said that if they worked at the same pace in the coming weeks, they undoubtedly could dispose of the remaining major legislation.

However, some of the important measures he listed, such as an immigration bill, remain bottled up in committee with little evidence so far that they are going to be cleared.

And several of the measures must be acted on by the House before the Senate can take them up.

Johnson and his assistant leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), both said the Senate worked "very effectively" this week in disposing of several major measures and dozens of minor bills.

They emphasized this praise was intended for the Republican minority as well as the Democratic majority.

Johnson noted that the Senate since Monday had disposed of a $4,100,000,000 foreign aid bill, a 970-million-dollar space authorization measure, a 251-million-dollar depressed areas bill, the 729-million-dollar Commerce Department appropriations bill, the 557-million-dollar Interior Department appropriations measure, a government employee retirees' health bill, and a bank merger bill.

Then he listed these important bills to be acted on before adjournment:

A bill raising the minimum wage and extending coverage of the act. This has been under consideration by the full Labor Committee since last summer.

A medical plan for the aged. Johnson said he believed Congress would act in this field before quitting. The issue is now before the House Ways and Means Committee; that branch must act first.

A federal employees pay raise. The House committee has approved a 9 per cent boost; the Senate group is still conducting hearings.

A farm bill. Johnson noted the Senate Agriculture Committee had approved a wheat bill, and said perhaps a more comprehensive measure covering many crops might come from the House.

A housing bill. The House has passed a one-billion-dollar measure; the Senate Housing subcommittee opens hearings on it Monday.

A social security bill. Now before Ways and Means. The House must act first.

An unemployment compensation bill. Legislation to broaden coverage and set federal standards is being introduced, but there is no indication the committees will act on it this year.

Assembly Aspirant To Open Major Campaign Next Week

Joseph G. Wilson of San Rafael, candidate for the state Assembly, will open his major campaign for the Democratic nomination Tuesday with the first of a series of "Joe Wilson Days" in Southern and Central Marin.

Wilson will concentrate in downtown Sausalito from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., then will move to Marin City from 4 to 6 p.m.

On Wednesday, he plans to spend from 10 a.m. to noon in Belvedere; from noon to 2 p.m. in Tiburon, and from 2 to 4 p.m. in Strawberry.

Thursday, Wilson will be in the Corte Madera business area from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and in Larkspur from 1 to 4 p.m. to meet the voters and discuss state problems.

The "Joe Wilson Days" will continue in every community of both Marin and Sonoma Counties, the candidate declared.

Registration Slated For Kindergarteners

Kindergarten registration for the 1960-61 school year will be held next Monday through Friday from 2:15 to 4 p.m. at the Neil Cummins School, Corte Madera, and Larkspur-Corte Madera School, Larkspur. Error In Attaching Home Results In Damage Suit

A Ross housewife, whose home was attached one year ago because of mistaken identity, is suing for $7,500 damages in Marin Superior Court.

Mrs. Virginia P. Hendrickson of 8 Fernhill avenue, Ross, filed the damage suit yesterday against the U.S. National Bank of San Diego and several John Does. Mrs. Hendrickson's husband is J. Norman Hendrickson.

The mixup occurred in May of last year when John R. Hendrickson, San Rafael manufacturer living at the time in Glenwood, was accused of a big embezzlement from the San Diego Bank.

The bank, through its agents, sought to attach the Glenwood home of John R. Hendrickson, and mistakenly attached the Ross home of J. Norman Hendrickson.

As soon as the error was discovered, the attachment on the Ross home was withdrawn.

Mrs. J. Norman Hendrickson of Ross says the wrongful attachment resulted in wide newspaper publicity. As a result, she says she suffered a reactivation of an arthritic condition, causing permanent injury.

Drunken Driver Draws Fine, Long Probation

Lourdes Lozell Robertson, 25, of 418 Throckmorton avenue, Mill Valley, drew $150 fine and three years supervised probation for drunken driving.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Muncipal Court also ordered Robertson not to drink at all during probation.

He was caught on Highway 101 near Richardson Bay on Feb. 20.

MARIN ET CETERA

Our Columnist Is What's Known As A Very Colorful Character

THIS YELLOW STAIN on my middle finger is probably nicotine which wasn't trapped in a micronite filter, but the pinkish-gray is paint. The purple blob on my nose is likewise.

My jeans have a rather variegated pattern on their original field of blue, but if I cut them back to shorts, I ought to be quite a sight on the beach this summer.

If there is one job at which I excel, it is mixing colors. My friends have long marveled at my ability to fuse ordinary hues into shades which have never been seen on any color chart. Out of sheer curiosity they keep me supplied with innumerable cans bearing dregs from their spring, summer and autumn redecorating schemes. They are very considerate about not asking me to help them with these projects and never mention them until they are over and done with, which is too bad because my talents could be of great value.

MY FAVORITE product is a tantalizing tincture which I call "Dawn of a Dead Rose." This comes in two shades — pinkish-gray and dark pinkish-gray. The latter I secure by blending in some black, although you can get a more interesting tone by using green instead. I refer to it as "Dawn of a Dead Rose After Sunset."

I painted a living room wall this color once and, because it was concocted with several glossy enamels, I had to flatten it out with crack filler and flour. This not only gave it excellent one-coat coverage but also increased its volume about 25 per cent.

It had the peculiar property of looking like one color during the day and another at night. The night time color was much better, particularly when the lights were low.

Maybe If I had used whole wheat flour, the tone would have been softer.

I have another blend which I call "October Rain." This is a mixture of apple green, cinnamon brown, canary yellow, red, purple, white (or cream) —and if you have some dark oak stain to throw in, it helps.

IT IS NOT very good for living room walls or any other walls unless they are wood paneling. In that case, you brush it on and wipe it off quickly. It makes the wood look real old and damp. Even after it dries it still looks damp.

Being in a creative mood, I thought I might get an interesting effect by combining the two colors, so I slurped one can into the other and stirred.

"What is it?" my wife asked suspiciously when I thrust the poly-chromatic commixion under her nose.

"That, my love," I said, "is known as 'Dawn of a Dead Rose After an October Rain.' Poetic, isn't it?"

"On my walls it isn't," she stated firmly. "Bury it quick before it turns into a Zombie or something."

"There ought to be something I could do with it," I mused. "How about the garbage can?"

"Inside, yes. You're not thinking of painting the outside?"

I WAS, BUT I let the matter drop because I had a better idea.

I divided it equally in four cans. To one I added a modicum of yellow, and to the others red, white and blue, respectively.

They really made the bricks in the barbecue pit look quite unusual. You must drop by some time and admire them.

The only trouble is that, after the smoke from a few summer barbecues, I don't think they'll show up so well.

Fortunately.

Ursula McCarthy, Mother Of Seven

Busy Woman Devoted To Her Family

By PATRICIA ZINN

As the wife of a state senator, Mrs. John F. (Jack) McCarthy finds her life not only revolving around the social, civic and legislative demands which are those of her husband, but also around her own pursuits with the Marin Symphony Guild, Ross Valley Players, St. Raphael's Mothers' Guild, Social Service Auxiliary, and a host of other philanthropic projects.

Ursula Mulligan McCarthy is all these things, but, more important, she is the Mother of seven children.

That being a Mother is her most dedicated and concentrated effort is reflected not only in the "yes, thank you, no thank you's" and nimble handshakes with which the youngsters greet visitors, but in every way the McCarthy home is geared to family living. High atop Fairhills in San Rafael, the two-story pink ranch home of the Jack McCarthys is a virtual haven for children with its basketball court, family room, playground and pool. The story of the "Three Bears" comes to mind before the rustic fireplace in the living room, where there are rocking chairs for Momma McCarthy, Poppa McCarthy and for each of the little McCarthys.

Aside from these roles and responsibilities, Ursula McCarthy loves sports, and it was no accident that the state senator and his wife from Marin were in the stands on opening day at Candlestick Park. For it was at a baseball game in Salt Lake City that her dad, Eddie Mulligan who owned the Salt Lake City baseball club, introduced his daughter, Ursula, to a young pitcher of the Twin Falls, Idaho, team by the name of John Francis McCarthy.

BORN IN San Francisco, where her father was a professional baseball player with the Missions and the San Francisco Seals, Ursula McCarthy has "lived baseball" most of her life. As the only child of Eddie Mulligan and Helen Manion Mulligan, she remained in San Francisco during the school months of the year while her summers were spent following the team. Her father, who also played with the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates, bought the Salt Lake and Sacramento ball clubs. He is now president of the California State Baseball League, and he and Mrs. Mulligan are residents of Millbrae.

Petite and fairhaired, Ursula Mulligan was educated at St. Monica's Grammar School and the Academy of the Presentation. In retrospect of those grammar school days, when the family lived in the Richmond district of San Francisco, she remembers taking afternoon bike rides along the beach and considered herself "real lucky to have had the ocean so close." She also remembers CYO basketball games and tennis matches. At Presentation she was student body president—a marvel to her now in that there were no political campaigns.

After her graduation from Presentation, Ursula's family moved to the Lakeside area in San Francisco, and she entered San Francisco College for Women.

It was during her college years, when the United States was at war, that Ursula Mulligan realized her first love—the theater. This might have stemmed from the canteen shows put on by the college students on behalf of the war effort. That she displayed leadership and dramatic ability did not go unnoticed by her classmates, as she was elected class president both her junior and senior years.

Upon graduation from college, she returned to her alma mater, Presentation, as an instructor in English, drama and history. She also remembers teaching the rhumba during social hour.

IN HER SECOND year at Presentation, she met a priest who was to influence her life and arrange for her to become a candidate for a master's degree in speech and drama at Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

That priest was Bishop Fulton J. Sheen who was then Monsignor Sheen, in San Francisco to speak as a prelude to the founding of the United Nations. How Monsignor Sheen saw in her a flair for drama and a love of the theater is beyond her comprehension, but his profound belief and encouragement led her to go on in speech and drama even though she had already enrolled at the University of California to work toward her degree in social work.

Her close association with Bishop Sheen has continued since that time, and when Senator and Mrs. McCarthy were in New York City in December, they heard Mass and had breakfast at his home.

Another famed friend as a result of her year-and-a-half at Catholic University is Walter Kerr, critic for the New York Herald Tribune, who was then a drama instructor at the school. The McCarthys were also house guests in the home of the critic and his wife, Jean, author of "Please Don't Eat The Daisies," during that New York stay.

Ursula Mulligan did not complete her requirements toward a master's degree in speech and drama because it was that summer that she caught the last baseball game in Salt Lake City and met her future husband.

AFTER THE reunion with her parents at the Salt Lake train station, her father was quick to exclaim, "Ursula, we've found just the man for you!" And so he called pitcher Jack McCarthy over to the box that day in early September and, on Nov. 22, the two were married at St. Emeydius Church in San Francisco. Ironically enough, Ursula had dated the best friend of Jack's brother, Robert, in earlier days in San Francisco. Therefore, Robert McCarthy, who is director of the California Department of Motor Vehicles, had been to the Mulligan home many times.

Prior to their marriage, the engaged couple had looked for a home in Marin not only because Jack's father's construction company, the Robert McCarthy Construction Co., was building St. Raphael's Rectory, but also because they both preferred to "live in the country." So, they returned from their wedding trip with two newly-acquired cocker spaniels and took up their residence on Elm avenue in Kentfield.

During that year they looked for a lot to please Jack's father who wanted to build them a house. With an eye toward a family, they chose the site of their Fairhills home which is within easy walking distance of St. Raphael's Church and school. They moved in only two days prior to the birth of their first child, John Francis McCarthy or "Sean." The family has grown to include Paul, 10, Robert Edward, 9, Brian 7, Sharon Maria, 5, Christopher, 3, and 1-year-old Regina. Jack and Ursula have also been master and mistress to 75 puppies.

Ursula McCarthy devotes her days and all her attention to her children, and it is only after they are bedded down at 8 p.m. that she finds time for her own intellectual stimulation. For this mother of seven who feels that with each child it has become easier because God gives one the grace to adjust, it is not difficult to understand why boredom never enters her life. She believes that the first few years for small children are the most difficult because of their physical as well as their spiritual needs. Kindness to one another and to mankind, discipline, and to do a job well are the attributes she strives to instill in her children, because she feels that she must exert her energies in the paths where they do the most good.

ONE PATH IS supervising the various jobs assigned to the children on a weekly rotating basis. The bulletin board in the kitchen has listed the various details for each one such as KP, pool area, basketball court, watering and the bedroom detail.

She also believes that one has to start early with discipline for a healthy combination of love and discipline makes a child feel more secure.

This mother makes a point of sitting with the children at their six o'clock dinner every night and reading to them—something short—a one page story from a child's Bible, or a short piece of children's literature. At present, they are traveling through Europe via the "Lands and People" set of books.

Weekends are also a family affair devoted to swimming and playing basketball. Not long ago the senator took his five sons on a "stag" fishing trip up the Sacramento River.

It was not long after her marriage until Mrs. Jack McCarthy was back "on stage" at Dominican College, where she taught classes in drama, and was a trouper of the Ross Valley Players, taking the leads in their productions, "Candlelight," "High Ground," and "Affairs of State." She also directed plays for St. Raphael's Mothers' Guild as "Seven Nuns at Las Vegas" and "The Velvet Glove." For Ursula, "it is a perfect joy to participate in the theater as erractic as my participation is."

Profile Of A Marin Mother

those "fleeting moments" in life when the children spontaneously come forth with a great appreciation for a thing of beauty or a thoughtful or kind act, also those moments from the stage "when you recognize a real communication between yourself and the audience — a magical thing, a munication, a meeting of two people, a real spark of communication, a meeting of two minds each bringing out the best features of the other."

A most exciting event for both Senator and Mrs. McCarthy occurred in 1956, when they, along with the Robert McCarthys, spent six weeks in Europe. Together, they left behind 12 children.

As the wife of a California state senator, Ursula McCarthy has been in the position to meet not only leaders in our government but also men and women from all walks of life. Because "I am happy and proud of Jack's activities in state government," she finds her demanding social and civic role as a senator or candidate's wife "a challenging one." What she likes best about being a senator's wife, however, are those times when Jack comes home with an intellectual, ethical or public relations problem. "He will present it to me and I find it a stimulating challenge to seek out ideas that might help the problem be resolved as well as possible. This is the challenge of a campaign too. In baseball terminology, one has to 'cover all the bases' as effectively as possible."

IT HAS BEEN her experience through the years also to find that the "big people" i.e. Nelson Rockefeller, Edward Kaiser, are as big of heart as of name—not only in their thoughtfulness and generosity in both great and small things but in their sense of humor as well.

These demands especially during the times of campaigns finds this particular candidate's wife writing political brochures or fulfilling speaking engagements with or without her candidate. She is very grateful for "friends and I think it is a great blessing if one has a few friends who are loyal and considerate and also stimulating in the arts."

One man who is all these things and has influenced the life of this entire family is a Maryknoll Missioner now in Africa, Rev. George Daly. To further his work in Africa, the McCarthys have staged two benefit gala "Safari Shuffles" for the past two years at the Meadow Club.

Socially, Jack and Ursula McCarthy may entertain at a dinner party at home, take in a sports event, or go to San Francisco for dinner, the theater or ballet. On these evenings Mrs. McCarthy strives for the outing to take on the semblance of a festive occasion. Whatever, one may be sure that on her person as in her home, the color of violet will be in evidence be it wearing apparel or a flower.

In the main, after 8 p.m. will find her in the rocking chair before the fire, "Gigi" on her lap, and a book, script or manuscript in her hands. Mrs. McCarthy is almost apologetic that "we are down to two dogs now," one being "Gigi" and the other "Bess," an English Pointer, which was an anniversary gift from her husband.

Just two weeks ago, Ursula McCarthy returned again to the book she is writing to "share my laughs." It is aimed at the amusement of situations in family life, the writer believing that it is a great asset in a family if you can laugh at yourself.

Painting classes, singing and dancing lessons in addition to gardening are several of the activities she hopes to pursue in a life where being a Mother is a full time career.

Ursula McCarthy is all of these things, but most important, she is the Mother of seven children.

Collegiate Jazz Is For Fun

By DON KEOWN

Jazz is a big thing on the college campus today. And its popularity is growing.

Nowhere is this more in evidence than at the College of Marin in Kentfield. There next week the Associated Student Body will for the second straight year conduct a jazz festival that is unique.

The College of Marin festival differs from most such events in one major aspect:

There will be no professional musicians or even would-be professional musicians competing for trophy awards. Except for a few guest groups, the performers will be strictly amateurs who play their jazz for relaxation and their own enjoyment.

None harbors an ambition to carve himself a career in the jazz music field.

THE RESULT IS a relaxed and informal approach to the music that is something of a contrast to the sometimes overly earnest performances of some of our professional jazz artists who seem bent on turning what was conceived as a form of fun and easy self expression into hard toil and a tense inner struggle.

Perhaps typical of the young musicians who will be playing at Kentfield next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights is Preston (Pres) McCoy of Mill Valley. McCoy, a 20-year-old College of Marin sophomore, will be playing with that school's big band unit, directed by Tom Chesnut, the college's conductor and instructor of instrumental music, himself a highly respected jazz performer and the spearhead of the jazz festival.

McCoy is currently majoring in business administration and liberal arts while taking some engineering courses. His primary interest lies in the business administration field, and he plans to pursue that work at San Francisco State College after completing his second year at College of Marin.

Music, including jazz, is strictly a hobby, he stresses. But one that affords him a great deal of pleasure.

He has been playing the trumpet since his grammar school days. And now he doubles on the baritone horn which he plays with the college band when it is performing regular concert music.

But the trumpet remains his favorite. And it will be that instrument which he will be blowing when the host school band performs Friday on the second program of the jazz festival.

McCOY SAYS that none of the 14 members of the college band expects to earn a living in the music field.

"We all play just for the fun and pleasure of it," he says.

And jazz remains a special favorite of the bandsmen.

"Jazz seems kind of basic to much of our culture today," he explains. "If you listen to popular background music of any kind, you are almost certain to hear a jazz touch. Much of our humor and some of our writing seems to have been influenced by jazz. It is a major social and cultural influence, and the college students seem to realize its importance."

The realization, he adds, does not cause them to approach jazz with a studious and serious attitude which would kill off much of the enjoyment. No one becomes "overly involved."

To today's collegian, jazz seems a light-hearted form of music that is meant to dispel, not deepen, our troubles and worries, he says.

The College of Marin band begins its switchover to jazz and preparations for the festival with the start of the spring semester. Some of this year's arrangements come from a Texas college which is the only educational institution in the United States to offer a degree in jazz music. Others are the work of director Chesnut.

"OUR MUSIC is not progressive," McCoy says. "We play written arrangements. This means you can play without a natural knack or close feeling for jazz. Still, it swings."

McCoy's favorite big band is the Stan Kenton organization. This, he says, seems to be true of most collegians.

But there is a greater difference of opinion when it comes to picking the top small combo. McCoy's own choice is the Jonah Jones group.

Reflecting the campus interest in jazz, about a dozen College of Marin students, most of them members, made the trip to Monterey last year for the jazz festival there. "And we really enjoyed ourselves," McCoy says.

This enjoyment will be very much in evidence again next weekend as members of collegiate and community jazz groups compete for trophies at the College of Marin next weekend.

PROGRAMS will start at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights in Olney Hall with seven bands and groups scheduled for the opening evening, six for the second night.

Saturday's program will start at 8:30 in the college gym and will be devoted largely to the appearances of guest professionals—the Virgil Gonsalves big band, and Dixieland pianist Wally Rose—plus the award of trophies.

A grand ball will follow at 10 p.m. with the Gonsalves band and the Corinthians furnishing the music.

Those attending the festival programs won't hear any George Shearings or Miles Davises. But they will see and hear a bunch of young people who are doing what they like to do, and who are having a good time doing it.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

"Why Do Men's Sports Shirts Shrink–Mrs. R.B.P."

Dear Mrs. R. B. P.:

Your question is timely. While all sports shirts do not shrink, it is true that they are more likely to shrink than dress shirts. That is especially true when sport shirts are bought in the skip sizes of S, M, L, XL. Professional laundrymen know that the difference lies in the fabric from which the shirts are made. Dress shirts are cut to a specific sleeve, collar and body size and, almost without exception, from pre-shrunk fabrics. Shrinkage is limited to less than 1%.

However, sport shirts are less standard. In addition to appearing in skip sizes, they are made in a wider range of fabrics which, often, may not be pre-shrunk. Shrinkage can be as much as 5%, making a 34-inch sleeve shrink 1.7 inches when washed. This is due to lack of pre-shrinking, not the laundering.

Because of these variations the American Institute of Laundering advises shoppers, when buying skip-size garments, to allow the garment to be a little on the loose side. If it fits perfectly when new, it may shrink out of fit when laundered. Possible fabric shrinkage must be considered especially in sports shirts where collar fit and sleeve length are important. The same warning about skip sizes applies to other types of casual wear and sometimes to less expensive wearing apparel, in addition to sports shirts.

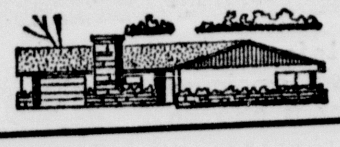

Thank you for your question, Mrs. R. B. P. Select your skip-size shirts and sports wear with possible shrinkage in mind and your casual clothing will be more comfortable and practical.

THIS ATTRACTIVE mosaic tile table was the first piece of mosaic undertaken by Mrs. Alice Shepley, chief telephone operator at Marin General Hospital, and shows what a talented beginner can accomplish. She began her mosaic work as occupational therapy after suffering an arm injury.

HERE MRS. ALICE SHEPLEY is shown at her favorite leisure-time hobby—mosaics. She has been doing such work only since 1958. (Photos by Steve Allen)

HOBBIES THAT RELAX

Hospital Employees Have Wide Variety Of Interests

Hospital personnel, who play such a great part in the recovery of the patient, need relaxing off-work hobbies to enable them to maintain their arduous hospital duties.

At Marin General Hospital, there are many talented persons among the personnel whose hobbies are particularly interesting.

For instance, Mrs. Alice Shepley, chief telephone operator, who became interested in mosaics in an unusual way. In 1958, she was in an automobile accident which necessitated her remaining at home for almost a month. The doctor prescribed occupational therapy to strengthen an injured right arm. A Pink Lady at Marin General Hospital suggested mosaics, so Mrs. Shepley bought herself a mosaic book, some mosaic grout and simple tools and for her very first mosaic made a handsome table. Since then, she has increased her output greatly and is always looking for new ways to use mosaics in her Novato home.

SHE HAS BEEN with Marin General Hospital since it opened in 1952 and assumed the position of chief telephone operator in 1957. Mrs. Shepley and her husband, Norman, have lived in Marin for 18 years, 15 years in Ross and the last three years at Marin Golf and Country Club Estates. They have one married son, William McEvoy, and a grandson, Stephen, age 1½ years. Their daughter, Mrs. Richard Gould, has two childen: Gary, 8, and Kathie, 4.

Russell A. Brown, chief technician in the clinical laboratory at Marin General Hospital, is an expert pottery-maker. He expresses himself as "throwing pots for relaxation after a rather exacting, hectic day in a job which I enjoy. Actually, my greatest concern is keeping up with the current advances in clinical laboratory sciences and in helping to keep Marin General laboratory one of the finest."

Brown manages to turn out a great many beautiful pieces. His skill has been acquired since 1954 when he attended adult education courses in pottery-making at the College of Marin. He speaks highly of the courses at the college, and says instruction and equipment are tops. Brown advises anyone who has an urge to create and who is looking for relaxation to try ceramics.

He says, "Slam a piece of clay on the wheel and start kicking and you'll forget all of your problems."

ANOTHER talented employee at Marin General Hospital is Isaac Lafayette Ottinger, a surgery technician. He was born in Tennessee, attended school in Parrotsville (Tenn.) and the University of California at Berkeley, as well as California Arts and Crafts School. He served for seven and one-half years as hospitalman first class in the Navy and three years at Merritt Hospital in Oakland in a similar position before joining the staff at Marin General in 1957.

Ottinger became interested in painting because of some Japanese oil paints he found in an abandoned house in Okinawa while he was in the service. This first experience in art so fascinated him that he has effectively continued to create. He prefers oils to water colors because he finds them more intense and vivid.

Ottinger, being single, is able to enjoy many weekend holidays and is an ardent collector of driftwood. These he polishes and works into various patterns and designs, following the original contour.

There are many other talented hobbyists among Marin General employees. And all feel that their off-work interests enable them to return to their duties refreshed and relaxed—the better to serve the sick and injured.

POTTERY IS the pastime of Russell A. Brown. And here he shows some of the beautiful pieces he has turned out. He learned the craft in a College of Marin adult class. He is chief technologist in the Marin General Hospital clinical laboratory.

BUSY AT HIS EASEL is Isaac Lafayette Ottinger, Marin General Hospital employee and a talented artist. Ottinger is also an ardent collector of driftwood which he polishes into eye-catching patterns and designs.

BEN TURPIN, one of Hollywood's most famous comedians, shares the spotlight with Ceci Evans and her famous legs in this scene from one of the early Mack Sennett movies. A dog seems to be one of the more interesting kibitzers watching the chess game.

THIS IS HOW Ceci Evans looked back in the days when she was the glamorous "Girl with the Million Dollar Legs," and a star of the famed Mack Sennett comedies.

MACK SENNETT BEAUTY

Some Million-Dollar Legs Have Returned To The Stage

By BARBARA SIMON

A million dollar pair of legs have come out of retirement for the Twin Cities Troupers production of "One In Every Family," which opened last night at the Henry Hall School in Larkspur.

They're the property of Cecille Evans of Mack Sennett bathing beauty fame.

Ceci (pronounced Chichi) was long known as "the girl with the million dollar legs." She has a supporting role in the initial offering of the newest Marin little theater group, formed under the auspices of the Larkspur-Corte Madera Recreation Commission.

Miss Evans has been living quietly in Marin County for the past six years.

"I fell in love with Sausalito, many years ago. To me Marin County, like Paris, is a place I was saving to live in, sometime," smiles the ebullient Ceci.

A NATIVE OF California's San Joaquin Valley, Cecille vacationed in Hollywood with a dashing uncle when she was 15. On a dare she entered a bathing beauty contest. The prize was $100 in cash, and a two-week contract with Mack Sennett.

"I won the contract, and worked for Mr. Sennett for two and a half years with nothing more than that two-week contract.

"I appeared in many Mack Sennett comedies with the stars of that era. Ben Turpin, Mabel Normand, Carole Lombard, and a little girl I helped, named Sally Rand, are but a few of the names that got their start to fame and stardom in the Sennett Comedies. I was never too serious about an acting career, so I played mostly for laughs."

Her lovely legs were no laughing matter as they were insured by Lloyds of London for $100,000. Sennett felt that her legs were so perfect that he used them as doubles for some of the less favorably endowed stars in close-up shots. Ceci went along with the gag about her legs and was seldom seen in public without a diamond and platinum anklet, which blinded the beholder often as she crossed her legs. Needless to say, she didn't keep her legs still for long.

After she left the Sennett studios, Ceci worked at Paramount, Fox and First National among other studios, and took direction from the tyros of the era, the great James Cruze and Cecil B. De Mille.

She likes to recall the fun episodes outside the studios. She spent two days in jail for speeding, although every studio big shot in Hollywood was trying to get her out. Ceci didn't mind, though. She felt she could get wonderful material for a book.

One of her most famous escapades concerns Wilson Mizner, the man who started the Brown Derby.

"UNCLE BILL and I were both stuck to go to a premiere. Neither one of us wanted to, but there we were. So we started to plot," she giggles. "He called every used car lot in Southern California until we found the car we wanted, a battered old Ford costing $165 which we had delivered to the Ambassador where he lived at the time. We got ourselves dressed to the teeth, then proceeded to the premiere. I drove, as he was slightly on the heavy side. Every block or so, we'd stop and throw mud at the car, kick the fenders, and put a few more cracks in the windshield. We finally arrived at the theater, and that car was the most disreputable jalopy you have ever seen.

"We waited our turn at the red carpet, and we were in the longest line of the blackest limousines you've ever seen. We stood out like a sore thumb. The radio announcer nearly went wild when we arrived. He had been announcing all the stars, and describing their limousines as they came up to the curb. I parked this jalopy at the curb, Uncle Bill handed me down and we started to sweep regally into the theater. The doorman stopped us and said 'You can't leave that wreck at the curb.' Well, Uncle Bill turned to him and said, 'It's not my responsibility anymore, I've just given it to you for a tip.' Then we went on in to the picture."

With the advent of "talkies" Ceci felt she needed work with her voice, so she went to New York for a whirl in the legitimate theater. She worked for Al Woods and took the part of "Poppy" in the "Shanghai Gesture" before she deserted the theater completely.

"I was too ornery to get a formal education and had been kicked out of a lot of schools, so I decided to educate myself geographically."

Her travels took her to Venice, Rome, the Riviera and to the mecca of all good Americans, Paris. While in Paris she traveled with the expatriate American writing and acting set.

Her education completed, Ceci married and settled down "for once and for all." Although she kept up her social contacts with her many friends in the theater, "my married life is entirely separate from my public life," she explains. "Just say, I led a busy social life."

When Cecille Evans smiles with her green eyes twinkling, no one can refuse her even the very smallest favor.

SHE HAS spent most of her six years in Marin County moving around. She had a houseboat in Sausalito, then lived in Tiburon for a while before coming to the Larkspur area.

"I had never thought about going back on the stage, until recently," she says. "My good friend Toby Manuel asked me to come to the drama workshop conducted by the recreation commission. I went, and on that particular night the scripts were being handed out for the tryouts for 'One in Every Family.' I took one home, and before I had finished I called Toby to tell him 'There's a part I want.' I went to the tryouts and got the part.

"Some people might think it's silly for me to want to play a grandma, but I'm not much younger than Marlene Dietrich. If she can be a grandmother, then so can I."

The legs, more beautiful than ever, can be seen on the stage of the Henry Hall School again tonight and next weekend.

Tickets may be obtained at Gilardi's Gift Shop in Larkspur, or through any member of the Twin Cities Troupers.

Curtain time is 8:30.

The Twin Cities Troupers hope eventually to build a little theater building of their own, and proceeds from their productions will go into a fund for that purpose.

THESE ARE then and now photos of Ceci Evans' famous "million dollar" legs. At left, as they looked when she was one of filmdom's most popular comediennes. At right as they look today. Miss Evans is returning to the stage as a member of the cast of the Twin Cities Troupers' first production, which opened last night in the Henry Hall School in Larkspur.

Marin's Young Man Of Music Keeps Busy

WITH MARIN'S Steve Atkin, far right, on the vibes, the George Cerruti combo performs on Channel 7's weekday 1:30 p.m. show, "Bright and Easy."

One of Marin's most active men of music is Steve Atkin—television performer, night-club musician, composer and arranger.

An energetic young man of many musical talents, Corte Maderan Steve plies his art on KGO-TV's "Bright and Easy" show (1:30 p.m. weekdays), at the "Four Winds" night spot in Sausalito, and in a variety of composing and arranging work.

Music has been Atkin's life work long before he and his wife Marlo settled in Marin in 1957. From early music studies in grammar and high school in Oroville, Steve moved south to continue his work at San Jose State College and San Francisco State.

After a four-year stint as a musician in the Air Force, Atkin struck out for the sometimes precarious occupation of professional musician . . . and made it! A steady stream of jobs at such well known spots as "Facks," "Bimbo's 365 Club" and the "hungry i" placed him in a position to display his talents before established musicians.

In 1957 Steve met Channel 7's bandleader, George Cerruti, who, recognizing a good thing, invited to to join the group playing at KGO-TV. Since then viewers have seen Steve featured on piano, bass, vibraharp, and trombone, and heard him sing on many television programs.

Six months ago Steve and brother-in-law Buzz Wheeler, who plays bass, landed a job at the "Four Winds" in Sausalito, and in quick order became one of the top music groups in Marin County. Their music is modern and in the jazz idiom, but Steve's classical training makes itself known. In swinging improvisations of jazz standards, listeners hear Atkin's piano frequently produce phrases reminiscent of the three "Bs."

When not performing, arranging music for such big bands as Woody Herman or writing radio-TV commercial jingles, Steve helps take care of Tommy, 6, and Kim, 4. The two Atkin youngsters, under father's guiding hand, are already expressing an interest in music.

For a hobby away from music, Steve enjoys flying.

"A friend took me up a few months ago," says Steve, "and I got the flying bug. I'm buying my own plane and try to go up in it least a couple of times a week."

Atkin's interests also extend into woodworking and "hi fi". His home shop has produced everything from outdoor furniture to speaker cabinets.

With things apt to continue as happily and successfully as they have for Steve Atkin, Marin County is assured of an avid booster.

Says Steve, "I couldn't ask for more . . . two terrific jobs, lots of free time and a great place for my family to enjoy life."

CERTAINLY ONE of Marin's most active musicians is Steve Atkin of Corte Madera, who plays on both television and at a nightclub, and is also a busy composer and arranger.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

More confusion in the stereo field is around the corner. A word of explanation may prevent the mix-up. We now have a new record which the manufacturer claims to be compatible; that is, you can use the same record on a stereo system or a monaural (conventional) system without any ill effects to the record grooves. The new records are called "Design Compatible Fidelity."

The Design label has been sold for several months throughout the country as a monaural record. After many playings, some of these records were tested to determine if the monaural phono cartridge caused any damage to the stereo grooves of the record. According to the manufacturer, the records did not show any damage and performed with excellent quality on stereo systems.

If the process used by Design Compatible Fidelity is successful, it will mean that one record can be used on any type of phonograph. As yet, we have not had an opportunity to make our own tests with these records; however, for those of you who would like to experiment, we have in stock the Design Compatible Fidelity "Sampler Album" for only 99c. We also have many of the first releases at the regular price of $1.95.

As yet, only the Design Compatible Fidelity records can be used on monaural equipment without damage. We do not recommend that any other label of stereo records be used with monaural pickup cartridges.

A Hospital Takes A Lot Of Skills

Many People Contribute To The Smooth Operation Of San Rafael General

It takes a lot of people to run a hospital properly. And it takes a lot of different skills.

People working at dozens of different jobs all contribute to the smooth operation of the institution.

On the average, two employees are needed for every patient. This does not include the doctors on the medical staff, nor the volunteers who unselfishly donate their time.

ONE GROUP which has been learning a lot these days about the manpower needs of hospitals is the Community Advisory Board set up to help plan improved and enlarged facilities for San Rafael General Hospital.

Their studies, they say, have been an education in the growing needs and requirements for good patient care.

They have learned how San Rafael General Hospital got its start in life back in 1905 as Cottage Hospital. They have learned about the services the institution has rendered to the people of Marin County for more than a half century. And they have studied the details of the turning point back in 1958 when the hospital became a non-profit community institution.

But to most of the advisory board members and to other leaders in the program to aid the hospital, one of the most interesting facets of their studies has been the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the day-to-day behind-the-scenes activities that must go one during the hospital's 24-hour-a-day operation.

Most agree that the 1960 National Hospital Week theme of "Many Hands and Many Skills" is an apt one, after watching the personnel at San Rafael General at work at their myriad duties.

National Hospital Week, incidentally, opens tomorrow.

DR. WILLIAM R. SMART, extreme right, chief of the medical staff at San Rafael General Hospital, explains the operation of the emergency department to members of the Community Advisory Board for the current project to improve the hospital facilities. Judge N. Charles Brusatori, advisory board chairman, is third from right. An expanded emergency department is included in plans for a new medical-surgical wing at the hospital. (Ken Molino photo)

FOR THE BENEFIT of Marin Magazine readers, photographer Ken Molino has taken his cameras and made a tour of the hospital, recording these activities by the institution's employees.

On this page and on the following two pages you can see what protographer Molino photographed — and what the members of the hospital's advisory board have been seeing as they "boned up" for their important tasks.

Hospital officials hope that in the not too distant future tours of the facilities will include new surgeries, an expanded emergency department, laboratory, X-ray, central supply and other service departments, and 16 new patient beds in a new south wing.

COVER PHOTO

HANDLE WITH CARE, tender and loving, might very well be the motto of the nursery of San Rafael General Hospital. There those very important people, the babies, receive the fine care they deserve. (Ken Molino photo)

A public fund appeal must come first.

This drive was originally scheduled for this month, but has now been deferred, probably until early next year.

In the meantime San Rafael General's personnel will continue to perform their essential assignments in their present surroundings with the same devotion to duty that has made the hospital employee one of the most respected professions in the country.

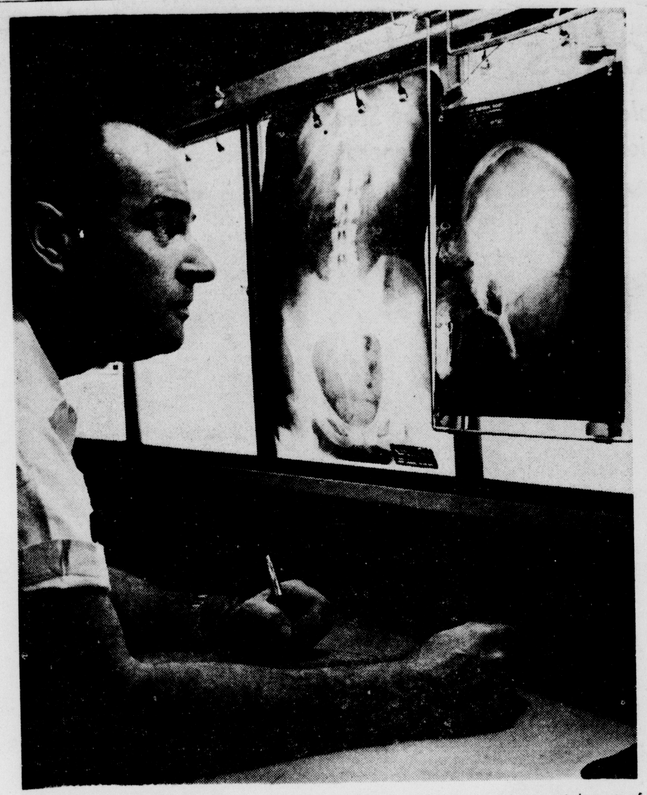

VOLUNTEERS provide "many hands and skills" in the operation of a hospital. Here a member of the Women's Auxiliary at San Rafael General, extreme left, writes a letter for a patient whose arm is in a sling. In the background, a nurse's aide waits to show another patient to her room. But despite the work of these volunteers, it still takes a lot of regular help to operate a hospital properly. You will see some of these skilled persons at work on Pages M-10 and M-11.

The Hands And Skills That Operate A Hospital

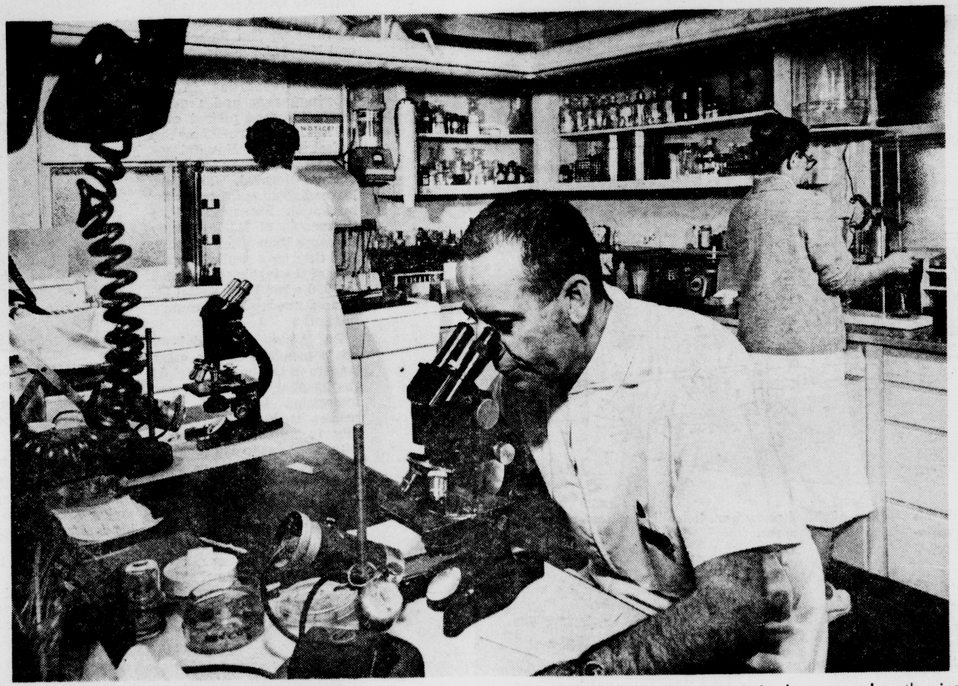

DOCTORS RELY on the X-Ray department to help them diagnose their patients' illnesses and injuries. In the new south wing at San Rafael General Hospital, there will be two modern X-Ray rooms. X-Ray facilities have become an essential part of any modern hospital plant. And the better those facilities, the stronger X-Ray becomes as a weapon against disease and injuries.

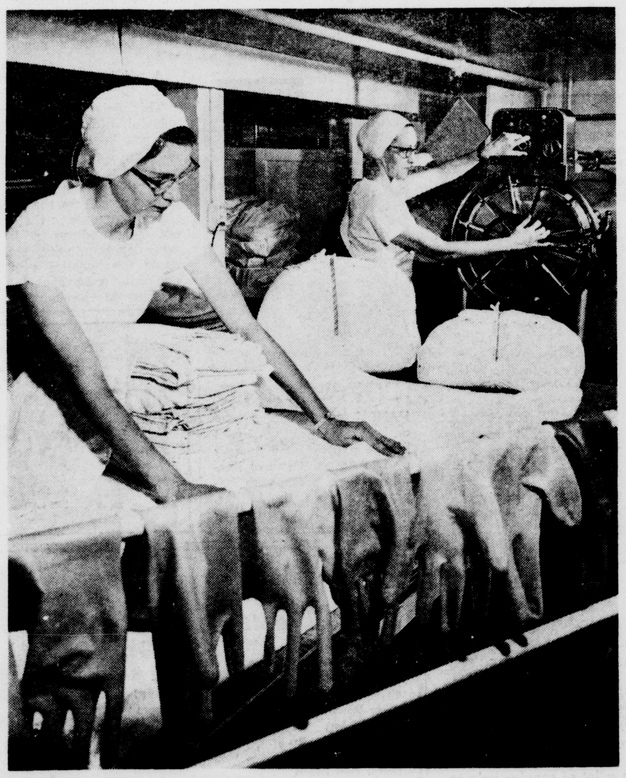

SAN RAFAEL GENERAL has its own sewing room, where skilled women make the stitches that prolong the life of and reduce the costs of bedding and other hospital materials.

THE DIETARY STAFF is a highly skilled and hard working part of the hospital team. Preparation of food for the ailing is often complicated by special needs.

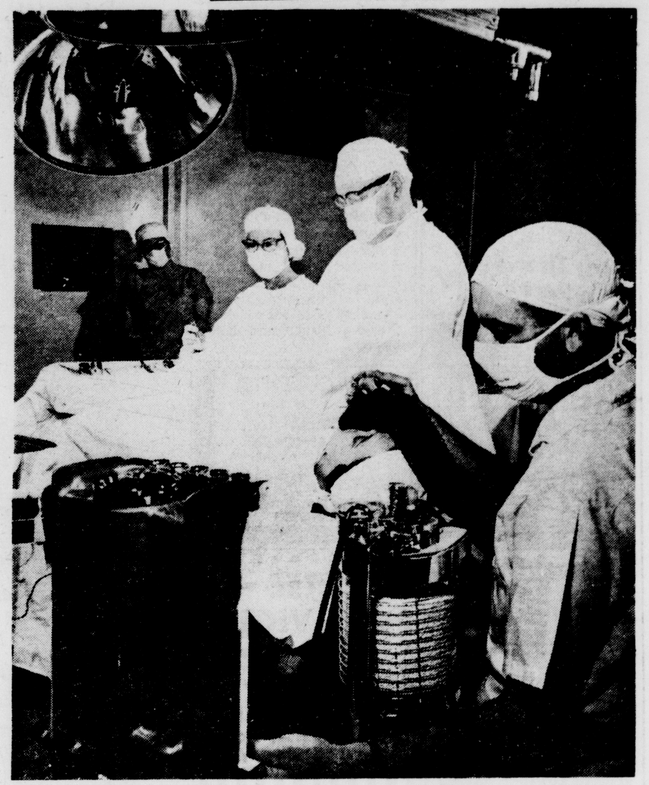

THOUSANDS OF TESTS essential to the patients' diagnosis and treatment are performed each year in the laboratories. These too will have new and bigger quarters in the proposed south wing at San Rafael General Hospital.

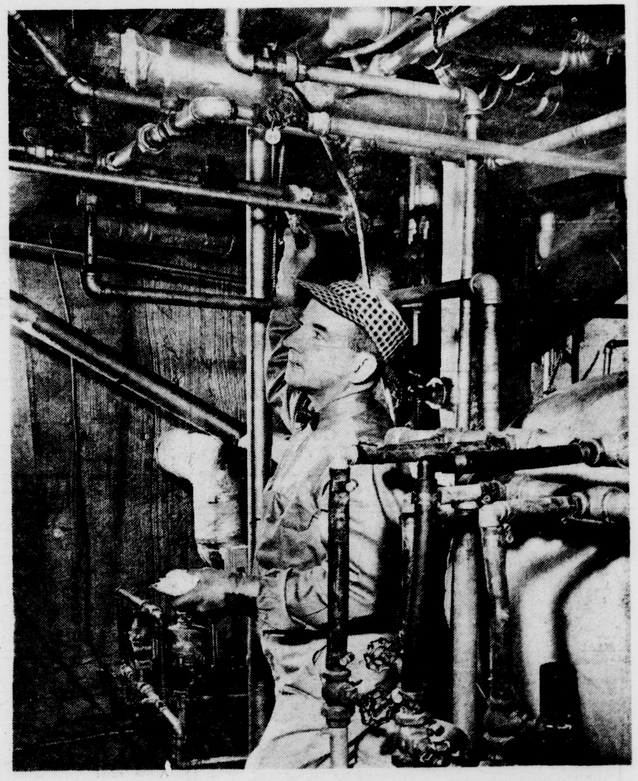

CENTRAL SUPPLY, where sterile supplies are prepared for the entire hospital, is one of the departments seldom seen by patients and visitors. But it is a vital cog in the operation of the institution. From here flows linens, uniforms and other equipment necessary to proper patient care and treatment.

THE NURSES' STATION is "headquarters" on the hospital floor. Building plans at San Rafael General call for remodeling many of the present nurses' stations as well as building new ones in the proposed south wing.

MANY PEOPLE THINK that the most dramatic moments in the hospital occur in surgery. They've seen such scenes in the movies and on television. And, indeed, many lives are saved on the operating table. San Rafael General hopes for a complete new surgical floor as part of its future building plans.

NO RUBE GOLDBERG contraption this, but part of the boiler room. Its proper operation and maintenance are essential to the patients' well-being and comfort. Like other departments shown on these pages, the boiler room will benefit from San Rafael General's future building plans with new quarters in the proposed south wing. But in the meantime the maintenance staff, like other hospital employees, will carry on from their present quarters. (All photos by Ken Molino)

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

Here's the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔Tuberous begonia seedlings are now in stock at local nurseries.

✔Spring flowering deciduous shrubs such as Spirae, Philadelphus (Syringa), Weigelia and Forsythia make a better show if they're pruned when finished flowering.

✔When transplanting annuals from nursery flats, let them get a good start—then pinch out the tops to encourage branching and added bloom. Exceptions to this rule are column stocks and aster.

✔There is still time to plant dahlias and gladiolus bulbs. Ask your nurseryman about dusting bulbs to protect them from insects, fungus; and about soil additions which can promote bigger and better blooms.

THE SHADOW-BOX screen is an ideal fence for outdoor living areas. Planter boxes can be used effectively and are included in free plans offered by the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn.

SLOPING LOTS can be perked up with this unusual stepped screen fence. It's a variation of the shadow-box. It lends emphasis to planted areas.

Distinctive Fence Lends Character To Your Yard

One of the most effective ways to give your yard a different character is with a distinctive fence.

Here are three easily-built fences that can be finished in a variety of ways, each suited to different needs.

The shadow-box screen is an idea for the garden enthusiast. This fence adds visual appeal to planted areas and outdoor living space and, combined with potted plants, ceramics or other decorations, becomes an integral part of the garden.

Like the other fences, the shadow-box is made with exterior type fir plywood, which has fully waterproof glue.

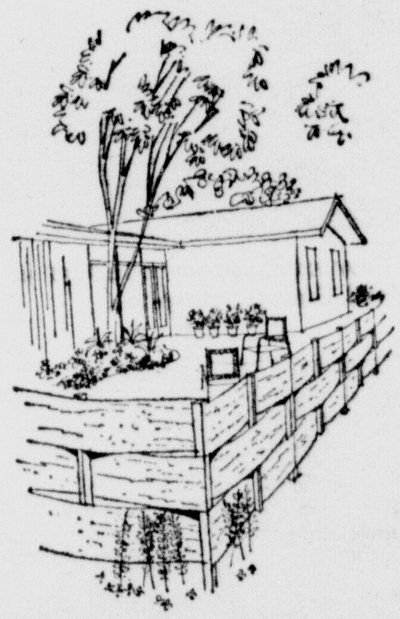

Fence posts and rails are two-by-fours, preferably cedar or redwood. Batts that divide the panels into squares are one-by-twos and step boards are one-by-ones. Alternate panel sections may be finished in contrasting colors for more eye appeal.

For an extra-smooth, easily maintained surface you may want to use overlaid plywood. These panels have a layer of resin-impregnated fiber permanently bonded to each face.

Planter shelves may be installed in two ways, both detailed in the free plans.

The stepped-screen fence is a variation of the shadow-box and has alternating open areas at the top of the sections. The exterior type plywood panels are placed horizontally with two-by-four posts and frames.

The stepped design is particularly effective on lots with a slight grade and gives emphasis to planted areas.

THIS BASKET WEAVE fence utilizes plywood that is wider than the regular slats. It's great for "breaking up" but not entirely cutting off the breezes.

The basket weave fence is made from sheets of quarter-inch exterior type fir plywood with four-by-four posts and floating divider posts of two-by-four lumber.

This model is especially effective where you want to "break up" a breeze but not cut it off entirely.

Free plans for each of these fences are available from the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., Tacoma 2, Wash.

Marin Living

RECENTLY YOUR Marin Magazine showed you photos of the Joel Horowitz garden along with other such beauty spots in Belvedere. Now we take you inside the Horowitz home. Here you can see the spectacular view from the Horowitz living room with the contrasting subtle quietness of the furnishings provided by the decorators, Hardman and Kopp of San Francisco.

A RAISED HEARTH and a pleasing sofa and hassock arrangement give guests plenty of room to enjoy the intimate fireplace at the Horowitz home. The house will be one of six on display Thursday in the annual St. Stephen's Guild tour. (Photos by Steve Allen)

A Visit To A Belvedere Home

Guests who attend the 10th annual St. Stephen's house hour in Belvedere Thursday are certain to fall in love with the Joel Horowitz home on Oak avenue, designed by architect Harold N. Wolfard.

Nestled high on a hillside among the branches of sturdy oaks, it provides a dramatically magnificent view of the lagoon. The interior compliments the natural splendor of its Belvedere setting and reflects the creative decorative work of Hardman and Kopp of San Francisco, who have taken full advantage of the garden panorama to use a subtle interplay of color and form.

Hardman and Kopp have chosen Asiatic overtones from the Asian series of Boris Krolls' upholstery fabrics. Soft colors have been used in the major pieces to tastefully contrast with brilliant pillows and accessories in stunning jewel tones.

Rustic contemporary architecture is offset by using illuminated Winfield foil on the fireplace wall and a softly textured white on the other walls.

Random floor planking stained in deep sable to provide a rich and pleasing background for a lush nylon rug was specified. It acts as an island to accent the principle furniture pieces, all of which were uniquely planned and designed especially for the main living area of the Horowitz home.

An unusual circular cocktail table acts as a piece, as does an antique money chest which provides top space and chest space between two matching easy chairs. The decorators realized that you can never have too much storage space and so the Horowitzes are very pleased with the abundance of useful little drawers where they are most needed to hold coasters, napkins, cards and other items necessary to gracious entertaining.

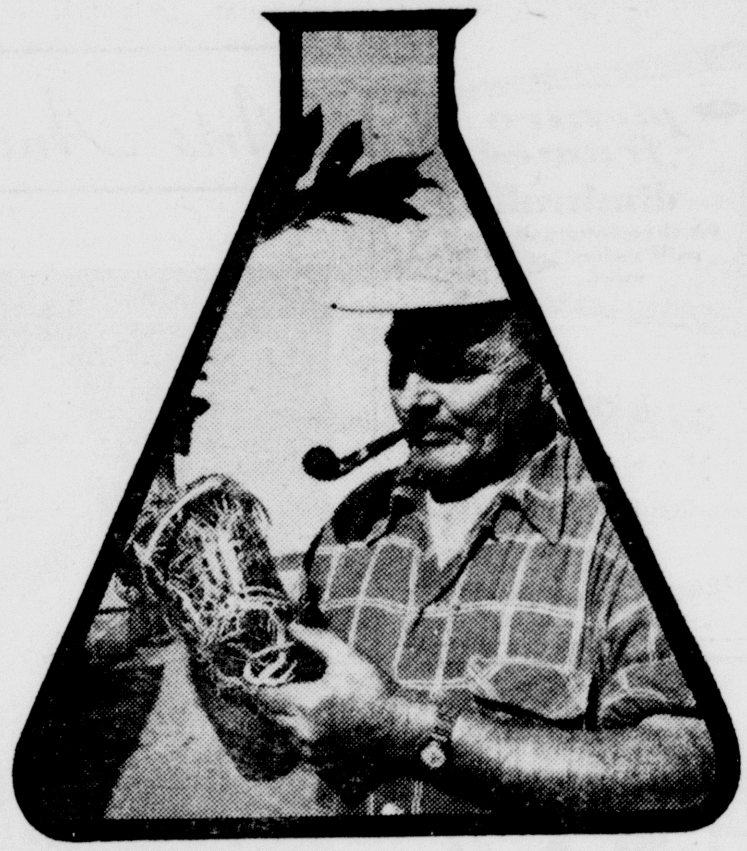

Window walls are effectively draped in loosely woven hand-loomed linen. They screen the sun and permit it to filter through in a pleasing way.

Lighting is successfully employed to achieve glamor and warmth. A massive wooden lamp with scalloped shade was custom designed by the decorators. A brass fretwork Indian lantern effects candlelight, leaving the reflected light from the cornices to provide soft illumination for the entire room.

For those who enjoy a modern home done in discreet and substantial fashion, the Horowitz home, one of the six to be shown on the Thursday house tour, will be most enjoyable.

A DINING CORNER of the Horowitz home is so planned that it is almost like eating out of doors, thanks to the reflection of the beautiful garden.

Marin Man Edits Historic Story Of The Pony Express

THE STORY OF THE PONY EXPRESS, edited by Waddell F. Smith, Hesperian House, 184 pages, $5. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

San Rafael's Waddell F. Smith is playing a major role in the observance of the centennial of the Pony Express this year as president of the National Pony Express Centennial Assn. And here, in the role of editor, he has brought together a 50-year-old classic and a recent booklet in one cover to tell the Pony Express story exceedingly well.

"The Story of the Pony Express" consists of Glenn D. Bradley's book by that name, long out of print, plus Raymond W. Settle's "The Pony Express; Heroic Effort—Tragic End." Editor Smith has added some footnotes to Bradley's story.

The Bradley classic tells the Pony Express story as one of romantic and gallant effort. Settle's short treatise adds facts and figures on the brief and financially disastrous mail-carrying venture by the pioneer freighting firm of Russell, Majors and Waddell. Together, they give a rounded picture that is worth a place on any shelf of Western Americana.

The volume gains "official" stature from a prefatory note by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

The book is plentifully illustrated, with many paintings in Smith's collection at his Pony Express Museum in San Rafael. Unfortunately, however, the color reproduction leaves much to be desired.

The jacket illustration—also in color—tells without words the essential drama and tragedy of the tale within the book. An Express rider, his pinto horse kicking up a cloud of dust, waves at two workers erecting a telegraph pole to carry the westward-spanning wires that doomed the Pony Express before it started.

Delightful Booklet On Chinatown

CHINATOWN SAN FRANCISCO by Jim Walls and Phil Palmer, Howell-North Books, 65 pages, $1. Reviewed by Don Keown.

A completely delightful little book about an extremely delightful place.

Two San Franciscans, reporter Jim Walls and Photographer Phil Palmer, have teamed up for this project. There is no pretense that they have made any deep sociological study of Chinatown. It's strictly the "tour guide" type of thing, but very well done.

Gate Playhouse Looks Back On Busy, Successful Year

Having just marked its first anniversary, the Gate Playhouse in Sausalito can look back on a busy and commendable record of eight major productions and four children's shows in its initial 12 months of operation.

The current attraction is the musical comedy version of "Charley's Aunt," re-titled "Where's Charley?" which is seen on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 and on Sunday night at 7 p.m.

Last April the Playhouse opened with "Pajama Game" in a Sausalito movie theatre that dated back to silent films. Many old-timers in Marin County recall spending happy hours at the Princess Theatre which later was re-named the Gate while under the aegis of the Blumenfeld circuit. To this day the original silent screen is attached to the back wall of the Playhouse although the stage has been extended 24 feet in depth since becoming Marin's most active resident theatre.

WHILE the Gate Playhouse has presented dramas the current policy is to stage musicals exclusively. Some of the highlights of the first year's operation have been Leslie Abbott's staging of "On The Town," the Leonard Bernstein musical which brought together several talented youngsters who later developed a successful nightclub act called "The Variety Five." "Annie Get Your Gun" introduced a diminutive blonde bombshell named Virginia Rae whose career future looks most promising; she has been tested by both Desilu and Paramount.

Biggest boxoffice hit thus far for the fledgling theatre has been "Pipe Dream," a Broadway flop which proved a Bay Area bonanza.

Talent for the Gate Playhouse hails from all over the Bay Area with performers driving from as far away as Alameda and San Mateo to work at the adventuresome musical theatre. There are several reasons why the Gate Playhouse draws top-talent; it frequently changes attractions the theatre is attractive and, by little theatre standards, well-equipped, and the productions have been critically-praised by the Marin and San Francisco press.

Most of the performers at the Gate aspire to professional careers in the theatre and it is important to them to work with a theatre which is critically-recognized.

DURING ITS first year of operation the Gate has undergone several shifts in management. It is currently operated by an executive committee that includes Skip Rognlien, Herb Krane, Leslie Abbott, and Jean Hutchinson.

Considering the shifting personnel of most "little theatre" operations, it is surprising how the personnel at the Gate remains relatively the same from show to show. Rognlien designs most of the stage sets, Douglas Maurer is musical director for most of the shows, and Arlo Jones frequently supplies the choreography.

With the theatre seldom dark it takes approximately 40 people to keep the stage activities in full swing. While the management prefers professionally-oriented performers whose careers blossom while at the Gate, newcomers of any kind are always welcomed at auditions.

REHEARSALS are beginning for two new musicals on the Gate's agenda, a revival of Cole Porter's tuneful "Anything Goes" and a West Coast premiere of Jean (Please Don't Eat the Daisies) and Walter Kerr's "Goldilocks," a Broadway flop but nonetheless a witty musical about silent film-making.

Meanwhile, "Where's Charley?" with a pocketful of rave reviews continues at the ever-busy Gate Playhouse. Students and children are admitted at half-price on Sundays.

Mill Valley Woman Shares Her Collected Words Of Wisdom

Mrs. Bonnie Friesen of Mill Valley is a woman who is parleying her hobby into, not one, but five books.

One of those books is now out and available at bookstores and newsstands. The other four are in the works at various stages of completion.

Mrs. Friesen is a collector —a collector of ancient proverbs. She says she believes her current collection of 5,000 such proverbs, representing a variety of cultures and languages, is the largest such grouping in the world. Of the total, 2,500 have been catalogued.

Her initial book is entitled "Solomon Says" and represents a sampling of her proverbs, most of these of Hebrew origin. But, she notes, other cultures are represented—for instance, she has come upon one of the proverbs not just in Hebrew but in seven different tongues.

"SOLOMON SAYS" is enlivened by clever drawings of a small boy and his donkey, illustrating each of the proverbs. It is, Mrs. Friesen says, the first time proverbs have been presented in cartoon fashion.

Mrs. Friesen founded her own Berman-Friesen Publishers to publish her book in San Francisco. But, she says, she turned down offers from some of the country's largest publishing firms. And those concerns have also expressed interest in the other books she has under way.

Virtually ready for publication is a book of 100 Arabic proverbs. Another book will contain proverbs of 25 different countries in their native languages with English translations. The fourth book will be based on American Indian proverbs. And the fifth book will tell of the seven and a half years of research work she has spent gathering the material for her unusual books.

That fifth book is to be entitled "Barong."

The name comes from a blood-stained sacrificial sword which Mrs. Friesen found wrapped with an Arabic manuscript and hidden in the walls of a house she had inherited in Mill Valley. It was in tracing the history of the sword and in a so-far futile tracking down of the translation of the old manuscript that Mrs. Friesen developed her initial interest in the Near and Middle East — an interest that ripened into her collection of words of wisdom from not only those but other areas of the world.

The discovery of the barong has also born other fruit. It brought her into contact with a school teacher from Fiji, one Mohammed Abdullah. That friendship caused Abdullah to call upon Mrs. Friesen for assistance for destitute students of his school on his native Pacific island.

Mrs. Friesen, finding time despite her eight-hour-a-day office job in San Francisco, responded by spearheading campaigns that resulted in the collection of tons of books and clothing and their transportation to the school in the Fijis.

ABDULLAH wrote her that, not only was there enough for his pupils, but some left over for inhabitants of nearby villages..

Later Abdullah addressed a second request to Mrs. Friesen for assistance. She was asked to aid a worthy Fiji student in gaining admission to the United States to continue his education. The process proved to be a difficult one. But she succeeded and Brij Bahn Singh enrolled at Yuba State College and later graduated from Sacramento State College.

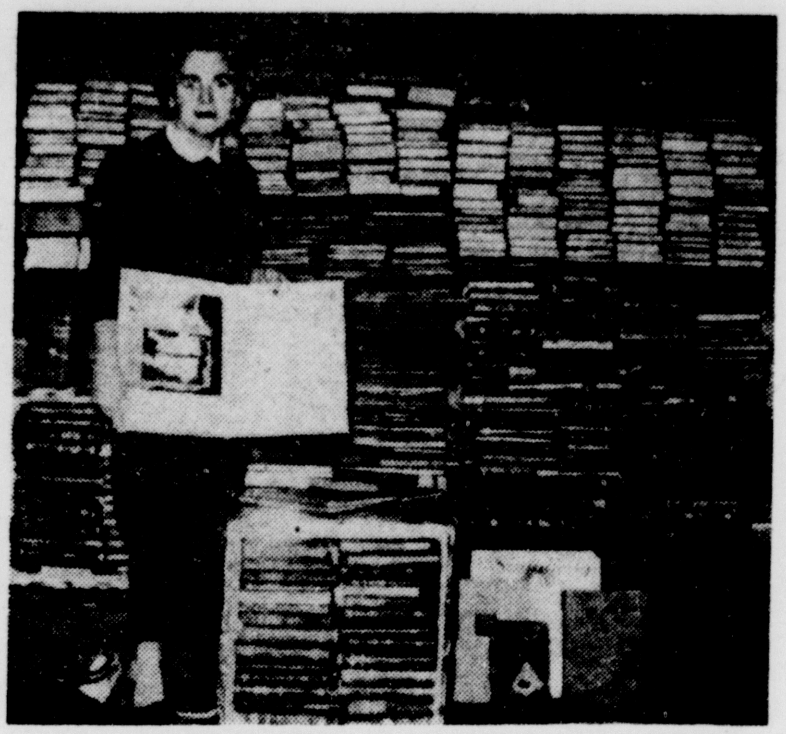

Since then Mrs. Friesen's efforts have also opened the doors to the U.S. to additional worthy young pupils from Fiji and other foreign lands.

A future project Mrs. Friesen is contemplating: Cartoons in Braille for the entertainment of the blind.

"Do good and you will find good," reads one of the proverbs in "Solomon Says."

Mrs. Friesen is unquestionably a believer in that proverb and in other words of wisdom which the reader will find in her first book.

It's entertaining and enlightening. And it is certain to whet the appetite of the reader for Mrs. Friesen's yet-to-come books of the future.

POSING WITH ONE of the stacks of books she collected for students in a Fiji school is Mrs. Bonnie Friesen of Mill Valley. The assistance to the island youngsters was just one of the products of her discovery of and interest in a valuable sacrificial sword she found in the wall of a Mill Valley house. Another result: A huge collection of proverbs, some of which appear in her new book, "Solomon Says."
